FRANK MAYO GONE.

THE VETERAN ACTOR DIES ON A UNION PACIFIC TRAIN.

Death Very Unexpected—Had Been Troubled with Fains in Bis Chest—The Body to Lie in State in the Lodgeroom of the OMAHA (Neb.,) June 8.—Frank Mayo, the veteran actor, died on the Union Pacific "overland limited" train, while en route to this city today, some while en route to this city today, some time before noon. He had given no signs that he was ill, although for a year or more past he has been afflicted with pains in his chest. These pains generally occurred at night after Mr. Mayo had finished acting. He had been examined only recently by a physician, who told him that he need have no fear, that the pains did not indicate heart trouble nor were they to be reheart trouble nor were they to be regarded as serious. The great actor found surcease for these pains by sitting up at night.

It was no surprise then that he told the members of his company that he would sit up on Sunday night. Roland Reed, the actor, was also on the train and the two spent Sunday evening chatting together until some time after midnight. This morning Mr. Mayo ap-and the two spent Sunday evening chatting together until some time after midnight. This morning Mr. Mayo appeared to have rested well during the night. He was up early and when the train stopped at North Platte he took a brisk walk up and down the platform of the station. He returned to the smoking-room, and, leaning his head on his arm, fell asleep. The members of the company left, knowing that he did not care to be disturbed in his sleep.

When it had passed noon, however, some of the members became alarmed, and Manager W. J. Block went in the room to awaken the actor. There was nothing that could prevent one's thinking that Mr. Mayo was merely asleep, but it proved to be the sleep from which he never awoke. The manager made the startling discovery shortly after 1 o'clock. Physicians were summoned to meet the train at Grand Island. They announced that Mr. Mayo had been dead between one and two hours. From appearance death seemed to have been a peaceful one, and one that was in harmony with the man's whole life. There was not the slightest indication that he had suffered pain, and his face still bore the kindly smile that had always lighted up his countenance.

The body was brought to this city, and was met by a large delegation from the Biks Society. The local branch of this fraternity had arranged a reception for their distinguished brother to be given after the performance of this evening. In its stead, however, it was their mission to perform a most solemn duty. Elks to the number of nearly one hundred gathered at the train, and as many more Omahans were at the station, and reverently uncovered their hearse. The remains were taken in charge by the Elks, W. B. Taylor acting as master of ceremonies. They were at once taken to an undertaking establishment. From there they will be removed to the lodgeroom of the Elks to morrow at 11 o'clock.

A meeting of all Elks in the city has been called for 12 o'clock tomorrow to arrange for appropriate ceremonies over the remains before they are taken to Philadelphia.

Wemen and Community Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Judge Ross, in the United States Court of Appeals, rendered an important decision today in a case involving the right of women in community property. The Judge holds that the share of the wife in community property is subject to all the debts of the husband. The decision defines a great principle, and gives the position of the Federal courts in regard to the construction of property rights by the State courts.

The Handit Brady Reward.

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—There was a short session of the Board of Examiners today, owing to the absence of the Governor. The matter of the reward for Bandit Brady came up, and 150 each was given to Alexander McDonaid and W. A. Johnston, the two men who captured him.

WAR IN CRETE. Christians—Villages Destroyed.

GY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

ATHENS, June 8.—Advices from Canea, Island of Crete, announce that the insurgents on Saturday defeated the Turkish troops, captured four guns and two hundred Martini-Henri rifies. Both sides sustained heavy loss.

The fighting occurred at Volkolies and it is said the Turkish warships bombarded the Christians when the engagement was taking place between the men ashore.

Other dispatches from Crete say that the Turks have forebly entered Herakilon, and that the village of Gatala habeen destroyed. It is further stated that the people asked for the protection of foreign warships, and that it was refused by their commanders, who said their instructions were only to defend the subjects of the countries to which the warships belonged. During the fight at Volkolies a number of villages were seen to be burning. It has been learned that the Kurds in the attack they made upon the employés of the Smyrna railroad, killed 200 of them.

Struck Out the Evidence. Struck Out the Evidence.

NEWPORT (Ky.,) June 8.—The Prospect of hearing Walling's testimony this morning brought a much fuller attendance of listeners, but they were disappointed. The court was engaged in hearing motions until 10:40 o'clock, and, after that, in hearing arguments on the motions to strike out the evidence given by Col. Deltsch and Ed Anthony. The Judge finally ruled that all the testimony of these witnesses concerning what Walling said to them should be stricken out for the reason that Deitsch, in the beginning, advised Walling that it was better for him to tell everything and that Anthony had represented himself as an officer. Passed Yesterday-The Deficiency Bill.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, June 8 .- Both Senawashington, June 8.—Both Senate Appropriations Committee, and Senator Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, agreed tonight that the situation indicated a final adjournment on Wednesday. The House agreed to the final conference on the Postoffice Appropriation Bill today, and Postoffice Appropriation Bill today, and the Senate passed the General Defi-ciency Bill as it came from the House. This leaves but four of the great sup ply bills still in issue—the District of Columbia, the Indian, the Naval and the Sundry Civil bills. Although neither house has yet acted on the report, the conference on the Naval Bill have agreed upon a report which, it is thought, will prove acceptable to the three instead of four, as the bill passed the House, and two as it passed the Senate. The question of the maximum cost of armor plate, fixed by the House ta 4425 per ton, and by the Senate at $230 per ton, is postponed until the next session of Congress.

In the Sundry Civil Bill, the public building items are still the bone of contention. In the District of Columbia and Indian bills, the question of sectarian schools and charities, respectively, are the only items at issue. The leaders of both houses expect an adjustment of the controverted questions in time for an adjournment on Wednesday.

The fact that the Republicans of the House have insisted upon taking up a contested election case in the closing hours of Congress has irritated the Democrats and they may force the ma-fority to force their own quorum to un-seat another Democrat. own, in the city, this furnishes the main cause for alarm, so far as the House is concerned.

In order to guard against a failure of a quorum in the few hours of the session today the House revoked all leaves of absence and ordered the sergeant-at-arms to telegraph absentees to return at once.

The final conference report of the Postoffice Appropriation Bill was agreed to. This left but four appropriation bills in conference. The compromise relative to the old settlers' claims in the Indian Bill was agreed to also, leaving only the sectarian-school question still open. Bills and joint resolutions were passed, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to steps taken to procure a settlement of the disputed question of the liability of Virginia or West Virginia for $640,000 of bonds in which the Indian funds are invested; for the establishment of a site for the erection of a penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for a scientific investigation of the furs and fisheries; to amend the act for the protection of the samon the furs and fisheries; to amend the act for the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska; to amend the laws relating to American seamen and to facilitate the reorganization of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

Just before the session closed, after one unsuccessful attempt, the House decided to take up the consideration of the Aldrich-Underwood contested election case from the Ninth Alabama District. Instead of adjourning, the House tonight again took a recess until tomorrow in order to render the special order of Friday still operative.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—SENATE— The new Deficiency Bill, framed to meet the objections of the President's recent veto, was taken up as soon as the Senate met today. Before proceed-ing with it, further conferences were ordered on the Indian and District of ing with it, further conferences were ordered on the Indian and District of Columbia appropriation bills. The activity and confusion on the floor while the minor measures were hurried through their final stages indicated the near approach of adjournment. The large attendance overcame the fears entertained that the Senate would be left without a quorum.

Senator Wolcott of Colorado asked immediate consideration for the resolution directing the Committee on Library to investigate the circumstances of the award of the statue of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, Rohl-Smith's design having been selected, and requesting the Secretary of War to suspend execution of the contract until a report is made at the next session. Senator Allison wanted the resolution to go over under the rules, until tomorrow.

Senator Wolcott suggested there might not be a session tomorrow. Senator Allison remarked he thought there would be a session tomorrow. Senator Hawley of Connecticut suggested there were two sides to this statue question. The resolution went over.

When the Deficiency Bill had been gested there were two sugs to this statue question. The resolution went over.

When the Deficiency Bill had been read Senator Harris of Tennessee offered an amendment covering the claims under the Bowman act which had been in the House bill. Although there was no specific objections to them in the veto message. Senator Harris said in the former bill the Bowman claims were coupled with the French spollation claims and felt no interest in them, but these Bowman act claims, amounting to about $500,000, have been subjected to judicial scrutiny and should be paid as much as any obligation incurred by the government. The amendment was voted to be out of order. The Deficiency Bill was then passed as it came from the House.

A letter from the President was read, consenting to the withdrawal by Chickasaw Indians of $100,000 of their trust funds now in the treasury. A

The following bills were passed: To amend the law for the punishment for transporting or selling liquors or wines under any other than their proper name and brand; extending relief to Indian citizens in regard to the taxes of lands held in severalty.

At 2 o'clock the Immigration Bill was taken up and Senator Morgan spoke in support of his amendment, that the restrictions of the act should not apply to persons coming to this country from Cuba. He said no country had contributed a better class of people to our population than Cuba. Its citizens, he said, come to escape the persecutions of Spain, and to live under free institutions.

Semator Morgan branched off to the present war, and said the conditions were such as to justify intervention by the United States.

The Senator read from the "Book of Blood," showing the atrocities of the late war. Senator Morgan said he had been assailed for desiring war between the United States and Spain. He did not deny, he said, that he was not averse to war if Spain in her pursuit of abominable despotism continues war on Cuba.

Senator Morgan disclaimed the harsh statements attributed to him against the Queen Regent of Spain, if the Queen of Spain Queen of England, the Spain in the pursuit of abominable despotism continues war on Cuba.

A final report on the Postoffice Bill was agreed to. It covered the item of consolidating postoffices, the original amendment being modified so that consolidation is not to extend beyond the five-mile limit of cities, except in the case of Cambridge, Mass., and Towson, Md.

At 5:30 o'clock the Senate held a brief executive session and then adfourned.

HOUSE.—When the House convened at 10 o'clock this morning in continuation of the legislative day of Saturday there were only about seventy members on the floor. Mr. Sherman of New York, chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, presented a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to steps taken to procure the settlement of the principal and interest on certain bonds of Virginia, the ownership of which was assumed by the United States. Part of the Indian fund, $540,000, was invested in these bonds and the question has arisen whether the liability for them belonged to Virginia or West Virginia.

Mr. Kem of Nebraska raised the point that there was no quorum, whereupon a call of the House was decided upon. The call showed 168 members present, eleven less than a quorum. Thereupon the doors were closed.

Mr. Dingley, floor leader of the majority, offered a resolution, which was adopted, revoking all leaves of absence except on account of sickness, and directing the sergeant-at-arms to telegraph absentees to return forthwith. Mr. Dingley stated the difficulty in maintaining a quorum during the last few days, and the fact that members were hourly leaving compelled this ac-

A special deficiency bill providing for the payment of salaries of members seated by the House and several minor matters was passed under the suspension of the rules; also a bill to establish a site for the erection of a penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The Senate joint resolution, authorizing the scientific investigation of the fur-seal fisheries, was adopted. The Senate bill amending the act for the protection of salmon fisheries in Alaska was passed. The Senate bill appropriating $15,000 for the payment of awards of the commission appointed to report on the damage resulting from and injuries inflicted by the explosion of a caisson belonging to the Second United States Artillery during the Chicago riots was defeated by $6 to 106.

Mr. Loud of California presented a final conference report on the Postoffice Appropriation Bill. It contained a compromise relating to consolidation of the postoffice. The report was agreed to.

The Deficiency Bill passed the Senate as it came from the House. When the announcement of the passage of the General Deficiency Bill by the Senate was made to the House at 1:40 o'clock members cheered. Mr. Dingley said this assured adjournment tomorrow.

By a vote of 63 to 54, the House refused to consider the contested election case of Aldrich vs. Underwood from the Ninth Alabama District.

The Senate amendments to the bill to expedite the delivery of imported parcels of less than $500 value was agreed to.

Colored Delegates Finding No Quar-ters at St. Louis—The Democrats of Arizons—Willie Breckin ridge a Candidate.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—In no former Republican National Convention has the General Committee had so heavy a duty to perform in making up the roll for temporary organization, as the present committee has before it. There are 158 contested seats from fifteen States, and one Territory, and of these the entire delegation is contested from states, and one Territory, and of these the entire delegation is contested from five States and Arizona. The committee as a whole will commence the hearing of contests Wednesday forenoon, and the indications are that it will hardly be able to finish them before the end of the week. The hearings before the committee will be semi-judicial. All the contesting parties have come pre-pared with printed briefs and affidavits as to their regularity and right to recognition, and each case will be presented by special counsel.

The committee will probably take up the contest with the States in alphabetical order. The committee's conclu sions are, however, not final. They are for the purpose of making up the roll temporary organization, and show in the committee's judgment who are primarily entitled to seats in the convention. The whole fight by every delegation may be gone over anew before the Committee on Credentials, which is to be made by the chairman of the convention and their contest do not even stop with that committee's reports as the delegates who are unsuc cessful will have the right of appea

So few of the committeemen have yet arrived, and there are none of the prominent leaders, but among the men who have been mentioned, however, are Gov. Merriam of Minnesota, and H. Clay Evans of Tennessee, a candidate for the Vice-Presidency nomination. Mr. Evans is also talked of for permanent chairman, as also are Gen. Grosvenor of Ohio, Senator-elect George L. Wellington of Maryland, Senator Foraker and also Mayor Caldwell of Cincinnati. Word was received from M. A. Hanna that he and his party would leave Cleveland at $ o'clock tomorrow evening and arrive here at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. By that time it is expected the entire National Committee will be here, as it meets Wednesday morning. It is probable Messrs. Platt, Gear of Iowa and Manley of Maine will have arrived, prepared to look after the interests of their respective candidates. The boom for Senator Allison of Iowa as the candidate of the coming Republican convention will be opened in force tomorrow. J. S. Clarkson will then arrive, as will also G. B. Pray, ex-chairman of the Iowa State Central Committee, who will assume direct charge of the movement.

THE GAVEL ON HAND.

THE GAVEL ON HAND. ST. LOUIS, June 8.—The gavel which will be used by the permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention was received at the head-quarters of the local committee today. It will be presented to the chairman by Sensator Berry, one of the Illinois delegates. The gavel is an excellent piece of wood carving, done by W. H. Bartels of Carthage, Ill., one of the most artistic carvers in the country. Bartels selected the wood, a hickory log taken from the log cabin occupied by President Lincoln, at New Salem, Ill., in 1832. There are panels on each side, which are filled in with suitably-inscribed plates of gold and silver.

DRAWING THE COLOR LINE.

ST. LOUIS, June S.—What shall be done with the colored delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention? This is a question which is puzzling the members of the National Committee who have arrived and the Business Men's League who secured the convention as well. Every hotel and boarding-house and café came out flat-footed today and declared it would not entertain negroes as guests or customers. Money is no object. Threats of prosecution have had no effect, and, from the present outlook, it would seem that unless tents are secured the black men will have to go hungry and unhoused.

"I am thoroughly disgusted and discouraged," said National Committeeman Judge Long of Florida tonight, in speaking of the matter. "I have been unable to find them. I even went so far as to try to charter a steamboat, but when the owners learned for what purpose I wanted it, they found an excuse for refusing me the use of it. It is the only time in the history of the Republican party where such an embarrassing predicament has arisen."

When asked what the National Committee would do Judge Long replied: "I have consulted the members who are secolution as soon as the committee meets condemning the hotel and innakeepers and for the laying aside of a resolution as soon as the committee would do Judge Long replied: "This trouble has been brewing for nearly a week. National Executive Committee should receive the same recognition from the hotels that any other delegates to the convention would receive. With this it was implied that citizens representing the city of St. Louis would ask and endeavor to induce public places, hotels, boarding-houses and bathrooms, at least for convention week, to accord to the reputable and respectable colored men who would come here representing their section and their people in the Republican party, such treatment as any reputable and respectable person would receive. It is not believed a great many would want to accept the privileges, but it will be very humiliating if one of them with their colleagues or friends or alone should present himself in any public place and be refused admittance. It is hoped, expected and desired by the gentlemen representing the citizens who secured the convention that all will endeavor to meet the situation as justice and propriety requires. When the hotel men read this they were exceedingly wrathful. They said it was an invitation to the colored delegates to prosecute them for damages. They went to the league Committee on Hotel Accommodations and protested. Concerted action followed, with the result that negroes cannot find lodging places, or even a reputable place to eat.
"This afternoon I received half a dozen letters." said Committeeman Long, "from parties who said they would gladly receive all colored delegates during the convention. I was greatly relieved for a time, but upon investigating, learned they were keepers of disorderly houses. This only added insuit to the injury already done."

Maj. C. C. Rainwater, a member of the Business Men's League which went to Washington, and of the local Entertainment Committee, is quite as much displeased with the turn affairs have taken as is any member of the national committee. He with several other members has been hunting for a place to entertain the negro delegates, but without success.

ARIZONA DEMOCRATIC CONVEN-

PHOENIX (Ariz..) June 8.—The Democratic Territorial Convention had one pervading idea, and that was free silver. Of the ninety-six delegates almost every one appeared radical on the subject. As chairman was elected, W. A. Rowe of Yavapai, for thirty years a silver miner in Arizona. His speech expressed dissatisfaction with the policy of the national Democratic administration, and called upon the convention to express its principles without hesita-TION. tration, and called upon the convention to express its principles without hesitation, and if wrong had been done by any man in principle, that it be denounced in the platform.

The Committee on Resolutions consisted of one member from each county. Its report on the main issue was as follows:

The Most Beautiful Woman of Paris and Monte Carlo Terrorised by Blackmallers—A Friend of Me-Mahon and Boulanger.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)
PARIS, June 8.—(Special Dispatch.)
Jane de Pougy, the pseudo actress of Les Folies Berges and the most beauti woman of Paris and Monte Carl has just made an almost successful at-tempt at suicide with laudanum. She says she took poison because of her wretched mode of life. The police say it was because of terror in consequence of the threats of a gang of blackmailers.

Liane de Pougy was first heard of prominently when Marshal McMahon was President, for the "Countess," as the woman called herself, was made public through a lawsuit. Liane's former secretary, Susanne Junca, sued for f20,000 which she asserted her mistress had improperly used. The secretary supposed the Marshale secretary. tary summoned the Marquis as a wit ness to the condential relations exist-ing between her and Liane. Gen, Bou-langer was accused of spending bor-rowed money upon her. It was also said that Boulanger borrowed heavily from the woman to bolster up his declining political fortunes.

Liane was also a favorite of the no torious spendthrifts, Maxime Call and Max Lebaudy. Lebaudy was recently generally discussed because of the trial of the men who were accused of having ed him. Call is said to have paid fleeced him. Call is said to f150,000. for a necklace for Liane de Pougy. Lebaudy also spent hundreds of thousands of francs upon her.

STOLE HIS MAPS.

Armstrong's Alleged Reason for No Finding the Treasure.
NEW YORK, June 8.—The World to-

NEW YORK, June 8.—The World tomorrow will say that after twenty years spent in organizing and accompanying expeditions to the uninhabilted islands of Cocos, four hundred miles southwest of Panama, where he believed he would find the tens of millions of treasure which Pirate Morgan is said to have buried there, Richard W. Armstrong of San Francisco has come East to sue a wealthy Boston man who, he says, stole his maps and discovered his treasure. Waldor H. Phillips has taken his case. In the forties Armstrong says his father met an old Spaniard, sick and without friends. He provided for him, and on his deathbed the Spaniard confessed that he had been one of Morgan's band, and gave Armstrong a drawing of Cocos Island, by which, he said, the treasure could be found. The father died, and several expeditions were fitted out, but failed through fights among themselves. Two years ago he interested New York and Boston men who backed an expedition of twelve men. Ten of them died from disease or were murdered. Armstrong returned. While sick in San Francisco Armstrong says an agent of the Eastern men stole his map. An expedition was fitted out, he says, and the treasure worth more than twenty millions was secured.

Neither Armstrong nor his lawyer would tell who the Eastern parties are. Cecilio del Gado, Consul-General of Cocos Rica, says it was reported some time ago that an expedition had succeeded in getting the treasure Morgan's men had hidden on the Island of Cocos.

No Foreigners Allowed to Enter th Spanish Fortresses—Rev. Dias Says Unarmed Men Have Been Butchered.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) NEW YORK, June 8.-A special to the Worldfrom Havana says that a lo cal paper prints an interview with Con-sul-General Lee on the subject of his mission, in which Gen. Lee is quoted as saying that he came to inform him gelf on the problem presented in Cuba, and would report to Washington with strict impartiality and justice. The reasons why he was selected were first, his great friendship for Cleveland, with whom he is identified in ideas and been accustomed to reconnoiter better than anybody else, is able to understand the kind of war the insurgents are waging.

Consul-General Lee has visited the several Americans imprisoned in Ca-banas fortress. He found the Compet-itor men very wretched and in filthy quarters. He will apply for their re-

It is reported that no formal charge as yet been made in the case of homas R. Dowley, the correspondent Thomas R. Dowley, the correspondent of Harper's. It is expected that he will be released soon. He complains that his arms were tied behind him when he was arrested, and that he was threatened with death because he would not carry baggage. Gen. Lee has received this letter from Dowley, written in prison:

"Sir: I have the honor to call your attention to the fact that I am an American citizen, born in New York, and am now imprisoned in a military prison without having any hearing whatever. I took up my residence in Artemisa about the first of May last. The Celador of the place threatened me with arrest at the time because I was an American. I obtained permission from the officer in command there to remain. About a week ago this office came to Havana and Gen. Melquizo went to Artemisa. The Celador there tried again and succeeded in having me arrested. I am confined among political prisoners who are awaiting court-martial.

"Thomas R. Dowley".

Gen. Melquizo, who had Dowley arrested, is the same general who is charged with responsibility for the murder of many "pacificos." Gen. Arolas, whom he succeeded, has recently gone back to Artemisa to resume command of the trocha.

Americans in Havana breathe more easily now that Gen. Lee has come. He has pleased everybody. His promptness in the Dowley case gives promise of a vigorous administration of the consulate in the interest of Americans. It may be interesting in New York to know a Havana newspaper has already nominated him for Vice-President on a ticket with Cleveland. Dowley has been in Cuba for sometime as correspondent for Harper's Weekly, and all the recent work in that journal on the Cuban war has been from him.

Cuban war has been from him.

Notwithstanding the reluctance of the American government to recognize that a state of war exists here, Gen. Weyler and the Madrid government seem to recognize it. In denying Gen. Lee permission to visit Dowley in Moro Castle, the captain-general used these significant words: "Under Spanish laws no foreigner can enter a Spanish fortress in time of war." The words are much commented on in Havana. They are commended to the consideration of Secretary Olney.

Another fact of much interest here is the act of the Madrid government in sending a note to the powers complaining of the alleged use of explosive bullets by the rebels. Why, since no war exists and the rebel government is not recognized as a belligerent power, should Spain do his? It is customary for a government not only to avoid the state of the Madrid control of the spanish laws as the state of the Madrid government is not recognized as a belligerent power, should Spain do his? MASSACRES AS ENGAGEMENTS

CINCINNATI, June 8.—Rev. A. J. Diaz, a Cuban, born within eight mile. CINCINNATI. June 8.—Rev. A. J. Diaz, a Cuban, born within eight miles of Havana, for twelve years pastor of Gethsemane Baptist Church in Cuba, now an exile by order of Gen. Weyler, preached yesterday in Covington, also in Mt. Auburn, and last night at Ninthstreet Baptist Church. He was a noncombatant in Cuba until his exile. Now he proposes to travel and lecture all over the United States in the interest of the Cuban patriots, as he calls them. He was recently released from Moro Castle prison in obedience to the orders from Madrid, to whom President Cleveland had sent overtures in his behalf. He said he had been a non-combatant and neutral. He maintained a hospital in Havana for Spaniards, and a hospital on the outside of the city for the insurgents. He said Spanish soldlers came and butchered 200 unarmed in surgents at his country hospital in cold blood, and then builetined it as an emgagement in which they won a great victory.

He said the Spanish soldiers repeatedly went out to plantations where the rebels had been and, after they had gone, in every instance butchered all the unarmed citizens, women and children included, and then Gen. Weyler would bulletin these massacres as engagements with insurgents and a Spanish victory. It was for telling the truth of these events that Gen. Weyler imprisoned him in Moro Castle.

CUBAN AMAZONS.

CUBAN AMAZONS.

KEY WEST (Fla.,) June 8.—In the recent attack which Gen. Antonio Maceo made on the trocha, four companies of Cuban women took part, according to advices received in this city. These women have joined the insurgent army because their homes have been destroyed by the Spanish. Many of them mourn the loss of relatives killed by Weyler's troops. In consequence the feeling against the Spaniards is one of the bitterest hatred. When Maceo moved to attack the trocha he was accompanied by these Amazons and 2500 men under Gen. Bermudez, Maceo's purpose was to break the line and send Bermudez and 1500 men into Havana province. The attack was made at night some distance morth of San Marcos, and was successful, although the Spaniards in their official report say Maceo was repulsed. CUBAN AMAZONS.

A letter received from a Cuban leader describing the attack, says: "We struck the strong line about 8 o'clock at night, taking the Spaniards by surprise. There were two battalions of troops at the point attacked, and we doubled them up and poured in a fire that killed over one hundred and wounded nearly two hundred more. The Spaniards broke and fiéd, a few of them taking refuge in a small fort. We used our fieldpiece and dynamite against the fort, and soon demolished it. The Amazons fought like the Furles. Nearly every one of them had suffered grievous wrong from the Spaniards and they took the opportunity for revenge. They rushed on the wounded Spaniards, hacking them with machetes. Maceo tried to stop the slaughter, but women were aroused thoroughly and were not easily commanded. Finally Maceo had to threaten to shoot the women unless they stopped hacking the Spaniards. One woman, whose daughter had been taken by a Spaniard officer, would bring her machete down on a wounded soldier and scream out "That for my Christina."

"After the battle Bermudez, with 1500 men, crossed the trocha into Havana province while Maceo, with the remainder of Bermudez's column and the Amazons returned to the stronghold in the Pinar del Rio Mountains."

The letter says Maceo had 20,000 men, nearly all of whom are well armed. He has ten cannon, three of which were captured in the recent attack. As soon as the rainy season is well advanced, it is believed that Maceo will make another assault on Weyler's line. Maceo thinks the yellow fever will decimate the troops stationed on the trocha so as to render it easy to carry the line.

GROVER TO THE SPANIARDS. SAN FRANCSICO, June 8 .- A. Wash ington special says the first epistle from Grover to the Spaniards has been written, and is now on its way to the Premier of Spain. The letter was signed by Secretary Olney, but it would have been truthful to attach to the bottom "By order of the President," as in the case of Presidential proclama

The communication to the head of th Spanish government was couched in friendly terms, but it presented the re-sponsibilities of the United States with sponsibilities of the United States with regard to the war in Cuba to Señor Canovas dei Castillo with all the force of argument of which Secretary Olney is capable. The letter was practically dictated by President Cleveland. He furnished the Secretary of State the points he desired presented to Spain. When Senators Sherman, Gray and Lodge, members of the Committee on Foreign Relations, called on the President last week, the subject of the attitude of the United States toward Cuba was discussed. The Senators informed amply protected.

The President assured the Senators

The President assured the Senators that Americans convicted and sentenced to death because of their alleged connection with the Competitor expedition would be protected by all the power of the government if necessary. He said their conviction was an outrage, and would not be tolerated. There is excellent reason for believing that the first official report of Consufcental Lee will confirm in every important detail the account of the trial and conviction of these Americans given to the Senate Committee by Lawrence. Gen. Lee will not hesitate to report the facts just as he discovers them, and events of great importance bearing on the freedom of Cuba may be anticipated within the next two weeks.

Insurgents Will Cut off the Gas and Water Supplies.

(BY THE.GRAPH TO THE TIMES.)

HAVANA, June 8.—(By Central American Cable.) It is rumored that insurgents intend to blow up the gasworks and cut off the water supply of this city. This rumor has caused considerable excitement here: because it is known that the insurgents have accomplished everything they have said they would do. Many people are buying a supply of kerosene and are making arrangements to get water in case the supply is cut off.

There is but one gas company in the city, so if the gas plant is blown up people will be compelled to rely on kerosene for illumination. The source of the water supply is from springs that formerly ran into the Vento River, thirteen miles from the city. A dam has been constructed around these springs, and water is conducted underneath the Vento River to the opposite side, and then through an aqueduct to reservoirs in Cerro, a suburb of Havana.

From the reservoirs the water is distributed to the city. If the insurgents should destroy any part of the aqueduct below the source of the water supply, it would not be a serious matter because the reservoirs hold a large supply of water, and the aqueduct could be easily repaired. But if the dams should be destroyed, or the aqueduct underneath the Vento River the Spanlards would not be able to make repairs in a year. In that case the people in Havana would be compelled to depend on the wells in the city and a few small springs.

When you take all these little side issues into consideration, you will see that I was judicious in not committing myself in agreeing with the proposition of the club as it stood in the first place.

"No one with hair a head will compare Sharker with me, no assections."

"No one with half a head will compare Sharkey with me, so far as science is concerned. He makes no such claims himself. He is simply going to take chances of his ability to stand punishment and his efforts to save himself from my blows for four rounds. Of course I am not fighting this man for fun. "I suppose you are aware that Choynski wants to meet you in an eight-round go?"

Well, he won't, unless he can get enough money to make it an object for me to go into training. I am not advertising Choynski. There are a lot of his friends about fown who have it in for me. They want to give me the worst of it every time they can. If they think their man is a wonder, let them dig up enough money to make a respectable side bet with me and then I will talk business. If I fought respectable side bet with me and then I will talk business. If I fought Choynski, it would be the higgest advertisement he ever had in his life. So far as the side bet and Sharkey is concerned, it's an entirely different proposition. Sharkey has no friends to speak of that are willing to put up their good money on a proposition of this kind.

"Now I will just tell you why I am going to meet this man. It's to show the people that I am a better man today than I ever was. I want to prove in a positive manner that all this talk of my backward slide is bosh. I assure you my friends will have no cause to regret the step that I have taken.
"But as for Choynski, I have no use for him. I punched his head off on the barge, and I will do it again if he can get enough backing to make it an object for me."

The government and four commissioners immediately lodged an appeal.

THE BOMB'S VICTIMS.

Eight People Dead and Twenty-one Dying at Barcelona. BARCELONA, June 8.—(By Atlantic BARCELONA, June 8.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Martial law has been declared here. The total victims by the bomb explosion yesterday are eight dead, twenty-one dying and 108 injured.

The person who threw the bomb into the crowd before the Church of Santa Maria del Mary yesterday during the Corpus Christi procession has not yet been apprehended. The impression is general that an Anarchist did the work as a result of a widespread anarchistic plot. The police are working on this theory, and have arrested twenty-two men known to entertain anarchistic sympathles. In connection with these arrests, they have secured a number of documents which give some clew to the plot of which yesterday's bomb-throwing was a manifestation. These documents indicate that the center of agitation is direct with the purpose of precipitating a number of Anarchist demonstrations accompanied by acts of violence at different points simultaneously or following close upon each other, so as to create a reign of terror in the different European cities.

Yesterday's outrage was accompanied by features of peculiar atrocity. It was while the people, both those in the procession and those looking on, were devoutly kneeling when the bomb was thrown by the unknown assassin. Whether by design or not, it did its deadliest work among the innocent and harmless, the majority of the victims being women and children. Those of

At Wayne, several dwellings in the west part of town are standing in two feet of water. Three miles west, 300 feet of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Rallway track was washed out and all trains were delayed.

Logan, Plum and Coon creeks were overflowed, doing serious damage to crops on either side.

At Madison, cellars are full of water, sidewalks torn up and telephone poles uprooted as a consequence of the most severe storm which has occurred in several years. Listed corn is damaged badly and other crops suffered much.

The section of the State near Beatrice was visited by a perfect deluge, the rain beginning to fail at 7 o'clock and keeping it up until the latter part of the night. The rains were heavier in the country than in the town. Many families living in the bottom lands had to be helped out of their houses, the overflow surrounding their homes before they were scarcely aware that the streams were rising. Many others have been able to get to and from their homes by means of boats only. The Blue River came up with a rush.

At St. Paul, Neb., reports from the storm and flooded districts still come in. They show the storm to have been worse and more widespread and the losses much greater than at first estimated.

From Dannevirke precinct in the northwest corner of Howard county and in the center of the storm district nothing has been heard yet. All bridges are gone and Munson Creek is so high that all communication is cut off.

The whole of the morning and part of the afternoon sessions were consumed in the cross-examination of the wit-ness John Osborn, the Oregon farmer. Attorney Crittenden questioned Osborn about his letters to the plaintiff and extracted the admission that the witness had tried to carry out his correspondent's challenge to see who could write the most ardent love-letters and Miss Ashley tittered audibly when her former admirer stated hesitatingly that he did not write so ardently as he knew how. He could not recollect, however, the terms with which he addressed her, nor how many love-letters he had written, but thought it might be ten or twelve.

her, nor how many love-letters he had written, but thought it might be ten or twelve.

Detective Wood testified that he first saw the plaintiff on June 23, 1893, when he met her by appointment in the ladies' parior of the Tremont Hotel in Boston for the purpose of ascertaining what she wanted with Col. Alfred A. Pope. As she was hysterical and attracting attention, he induced her to accompany him to his office and told her that he had received information to the effect that she had threatened to see Mrs. Pope and tell her that the colonel had ruined her, unless he settled a comfortable income upon her.

Miss Ashley stated that if she had money she would go out to a town near Los Angeles in California and buy a small place, where she could live with her mother very comfortably, and the witness thereupon made another appointment with her for the next day. Meanwhile, he communicated with Col. Pope and Attorney Redding, and when she called upon him next morning he asked her how much such a place as she referred to would cost. She replied that she considered $2000 sufficient. The witness then told her that while his principal was under no obligation whatever, he had given him authority to do as he deemed best. He would, therefore, buy her such a place as she wanted, if on her part she would give. Col. Pope a written release from all claims and return his letters to her. Wood afterward came to the conclusion that Miss Ashley was trying to blackmail Col. Pope, and he declined to have anything to do with the matter, and advised the colonel to revoke his gift of the Pasadena place.

They told Mrs. Quinn that they were man and wife, and, as he paid her cash for a week's rent she asked them no questions, and did not even try to learn their names. Hay, according to the story which he told while writhing in pain on the operating table of the hospital, first met Mrs. MacDougall about three weeks ago. He firted with her and a friend-ship sprung up between them. They were constantly together. Several times the woman told Hay that she loved him, and if ever he tried to leave her it would be his death. Hay paid no attention to her threats.

Hay had been with her three days and nights in the room on McAllister street. He had neglected his work to be with her, and last night came to the conclusion that he would return to his home, where he lives with his father and mother. He was lying in bed, and the woman was standing beside him. It was then about 11 o'clock, and he told her that he would go home in about an hour. The woman asked him if he had decided to leave her, and when he said yes, she shot him and then herself. SACRAMENTO, June 8.—Gov. Budd has given out his last letter to the Bank Commissioners for publication. In it he relates his demand for a statement from all the banks as how they stood on the first Monday in March, and he reiterates it in language that cannot be misunderstood.

The strongest part of his letter is where he calls attention to a statement by the Bank Commissioners which he says is not true. After referring to a letter from the commissioners dated April 20 in which they say that the banks would have compiled with the Governor's request were it not for the fact that a large proportion of the statements had been tabulated and were already in the hands of the State Printer, the Governor says:

"The day on which you say the reports were in the hands of the State printer for publication, the records of the State Printing Office, so I am informed, show that they were not in his hands. He did not receive them until twelve days after my letter, and on the third day after your letter to me stating that they were 'in his hands.'"

Have Been Favorable.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

SACRAMENTO, June 3.—The following synopsis of the weather and crop conditions during the week ending Monday, June 3, is issued by the State Agricultural Society in cooperation with the United States Climate and Crop Service:

The average temperature for the week ending Monday, June 3, was as follows for the places named: Eureka 54, Fresno 50, Los Angeles 64. Red Bluff 70, Sacramento 66, San Francisco 56, San Diego 60. As compared with the normal temperatures there were heat deficiencies reported at all points, as follows: Eureka 1 deg., Fresno 3, Los Angeles 3, Red Bluff 2, Sacramento 2, San Francisco 3, San Diego 4.

The total precipitation was for Eureka 50 of an inch and San Diego .10 of an inch; a trace at Los Angeles and Red Bluff, and nothing at Fresno, Sacramento and San Francisco. As compared with the normal precipitation a deficiency was shown at all points.

The climatic conditions of the past week have been favorable for summer crops, and greatly helped the grain to fill with good, plump kernels.

Bdward Willard said he is a banker and broker, and testified that he had done business for Fairbank for nearly forty years. He identified the note from Fairbank introducing him to Mrs. Carter.

The witness could not be made to admit that the instructions in business methods which he had communicated by letter to Mrs. Carter, as shown in evidence last week were inspired by a third party. He said, however, that money deposited for this theatrical enterprise came from Fairbank. In 1890 he had loaned the "Ugly Duckling" company $4500, the check being drawn in favor of Mrs. Carter. He had also paid $1500 to Paul Potter to work on the play. The amount deposited at the start in the hands of witness by Fairbank was $7000.

Witness said Mr. Fairbank told him Mrs. Carter had been in hard luck, and he wanted to help her. Fairbank thought she was talented, and, if given a chance, would be able to make her own living. He further told wit-

The final session of the Swedish Lutheran Synod was held last evening at Omaha. It was decided that none of the schools of the various conferences should be allowed to erect buildings, extend courses or take other important steps without first obtining the consent of the synod. This ruling will affect two schools in Minnesots, one in Brooklyn, one in Chicago, one in Lindsborg, Kan, and another in Wahoo, Neb. The same ruling forbids any conference from establishing any new school without the consent of the synod.

Mr. Maguire of California protested against the personal assault on Hearst, who was in New York, and probably had no knowledge of the article to which Mr. Johnson took exception.

The conference report on the Indian Bill containing the compromise relative to the old settlers' claim, was agreed to and the bill sent to further conference. This left the sectarian school question the only matter still in dispute between the two houses.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Mr. Daniels of New York again called the Aldrich-Underwood contested election case. This aroused the ire of the Democrats. The question of consideration was raised, but this time the House decided by 130 to 88 to consider the case. During the progress of the roll-call many of the Democrats left the hall.

Mr. McMillin of Tennessee attempted to force a division on the conference on the District of Columbia Appropriation bills as a means of developing that no quorum was present, but Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, who was temporarily in the chair, manipulated the parliamentary situation so as to prevent this, and subsequently despite the protests of Mr. Terry of Arkansas, declined to entertain an appeal from his decision.

The District of Columbia Appropriation bill was sent back to further conference, and at 6 o'clock the House took a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

LONDON, June 8.—(By Atlantic Cable.)

The third congress of the Chamber of Commerce of the Empire opened here today with the reception of the delegates. The Canadian delegates include Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Sanford Fleming.

The first sitting will occur tomorrow morning, when the members will be welcomed by Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies and honorary president of the congress. Director Mackenzie Bowell, in an interview today, said the object of the congress was to bring the empire together at the proper time, which was not far distant, when much closer trade relations between the colonies would be arrived at. He added that while he was not a free-trader, he was no hidebound protectionist, and believed the time was fast coming when the colonies would be quite prepared to make concessions, proriding Great Britain would make some trifling concessions.

At the luncheon Sir Mackenzie Bowell reviding Great Britain would make some trifling concessions.

At the luncheon Sir Mackensie Bowell replied to the toast, "The British Empire." In so doing he said the British Empire was second to none in the world. Americans were, he said, usually accused of apread-eagleism, and it he boasted, living, as he did, along-side of the United States, he hoped for forgiveness. He lauded the loyalty of Canada, and, referring to the possibility of war with the United States, said the people of Canada would rather die than be brought under the Stars and Stripes. Canada today, the speaker said, was willing to surrender a portion of her fiscal policy, as the Canadains wished to make Canada the highway to the East.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Thomas Thompson, in company with two friends, went out for a spin on their bicycles last evening near Greenville, N. J., and passed the spot where three weeks ago Charles F. Schroeder of this city lost his life by being thrown over the Palisades from his bicycle. On each side of the highway there are deep ravines. The roadway is twenty-three feet wide and the only protection at the brink is a small pile of stones.

Thompson's wheel struck a stone in the road, and he was thrown off. He plunged over the cliff into the gorge below. His friends crawled down the steep embankment where they found Thompson unconsclous and suffering from a fracture of the skull. His Notes on Irrigation.

(By T. S. Van Dyke in Irrigation Age:) The size of the checks to contain the water in irrigation by flooding will also depend upon the head of water at your service.

Suppose you have two cubic feet a second, or 100 miners' inches for ten acres. This is head enough for most any orchard work on almost any soil worth cultivating at afl, and though for alfalfa much more may be used, it is quite ample if no more can be had. Suppose the checks are twenty feet square, which would give them an area of 400 square feet. It would then take two cubic feet a second but 200 seconds to fill a foot deep. But you rarely want more than the equivalent of three inches of rain at a time, or one-fourth of an acre foot. This would fill the check in fifty seconds. A line of checks to watch and let the water from one to the other as fast as filled and no breaking away of the water will keep you and two other average men hopping about pretty lively. An it lie chances are you will find any kind of waterproof boots two slow as compared with bare legs. There is no room for style in this work. It is very strict business, and often there is a very short time in which to do it. If you want to hire less help, you will make the checks larger. But here you may be limited by the nature of the crop as well as by the slope of the land, If it is an orchard it will probably be more convenient to have the ridges in the center between the trees. Is is impossible to lay down any rule. The right hing is a see-saw between several extremes. In some cases it will pay to use a smaller head to avoid making too large checks, and on the contrary you may have to make them large because you are limited to so short a run that you have to make them large because you will put on a tract in within the time allowed you to run the water.

It is best to decide at the outset how much water you will put on a tract in a given time. Two cubic feet a second will cover ten acres to an average depth of three inches in about fifteen hours. On account of mistakes in printing you had better figure over for yourself all such matters, and not rely on printed figures anywhere. But you will rarely need to put on even that amount of water at once. A depth of two inches, which can be put on in about ten hours, is equal to three inches of rain, as it generally comes, and this is enough at a time for aimost anything, unless the ground is very dry, or it is to be a long time before you can get water again. On a square ten-acre tract there will be about eleven hundred checks of twenty feet square, or thirty-three row thirty-three checks long. Ten hours' run of two cubic feet a second. giving the equivalent of two inches in depth, would be 600 minutes, or but a trifle over half a minute to a check. But if as small as twenty feet, you do not turn the whole head into one check, but take them in tiers of several. A tier of six would thus give you a little over three minutes to a check. But, then, time is lost in dividing the stream and fetting it from one check to the next as soon as one is filled. On the whole, it is lively work, but when everything is well arranged, flooding beats the capricious clouds so much that you readily forgive it for keeping you up sometimes in the middle of the night while the man who has small streams trickling down small furrows is sorenely snoring.

Checks are generally so arranged that when one is full, or nearly so, the water flows from it to the next one. Sometimes this flow will need help, and where the land is to be broken up again after irrigating, they had better be made sometimes so that one will not feed the next one as there is danger of the bank cutting out too soon. How strong or high to make the bank will depend much upon the nature of the soil as well as of the crop. Where the soil is very light it is best to make the ridges so that you have to break it. This is not much of a task as you have to be there anyhow, and if the water gets away from you, a dozen men may not stop it before it has done mischied that will cost you much more liabor than opening the checks. But if the ground is not to be broken up after wetting, as in alfalfa fields, then the lower ridge may sometimes be made so as to discharge all water quickly. In any case the ridges, if permanent, must be made very strong and very broad at the base. When the roots have taken possession of the top soil a very light sand will prevent cutting of the soil and secilental breaking of the check, and it can readily be seen so as not to be in the way of dr with fine furrows. And where the checks are numerous and small this is often best, dividing the head so as to take the checks in blocks or tiers. Often it may be better to have the ditch run through the center, feeding to the right and left. The trouble in such case is to empty the checks fast enough without wasting the water, where one feeds another there is little waste. The ditch must, in all cases, be high enough to lusure rands and certain feed of water.

The time required to soak the ground will also vary greatly with the nature of the soil. If the checks are so made that they do not break and let out more water than you intend, the soil will be well soaked in two or three hours, and often less time after the check is covered on the bottom. If it takes much longer than this, it is pretty strong evidence that the texture of the soil is so close that fine furrows would do better for all orchard work. For in such case for all orenard work. For in such case you are quite certain to be troubled with the soil baking too much and making it difficult to cultivate and keep the soil open with cultivation. There is also danger of scalding tender stuff in bot weather.

the soil open with cultivation. There is also danger of scalding tender stuff in hot weather.

As the upper checks feed the lower ones and are thus full for a longer time in a long series, one would suppose that the upper side of the field will be much wetter than the lower. The same would be expected from fine furrow work. But in general no difference can be sen if the work has been well done. And it is not difficult to arrange the breaking of the checks in such way that the water will remain longer in those at the lower side. But you need not at first trouble yourself with such points, but concentrate all your talents on getting the water over the whole as quickly as possible without having it stand too deep or too long in any one place. When once you have mastered this you will find all the rest easy enough. And if you have laid out the slope right and made the checks with care, and have plenty of help to handle the rush of water when it comes, you will find mo trouble even with this.

Flooding may be used for all sorts of vegetation. But where possible, the stalk or stem of everything should be protected from contact with water. In the case of trees it is easy to leave a little mound about the trunk so that there is no excuse for the water touching it. But with many vegetables and small tender stuff it is generally impossible to do this at any reasonable cost. If the plants cannot in such case be set up on a little ridge above the water it should be spread over the whole in a thin sheet with the greatest speed possible. And if possible it should be done in the afternoon or evening, so that the sun cannot strike the stem until it and the ground around it are comparitively dry. Plants differ much in the ability to endure the baking of the ground around the stem and the scalding of the stem from having the hot sun strike it while wet. Young melons, for instance, are quickly hurt, while young radishes seem unaffected. As a rule the evil is exaggerated by many. Not much harm will be done anything if the water is not allowed to stay around it too long, or too hot a sun allowed to strike the stem too soon after the water is taken off. In cool, cloudy weather there is little danger. As it would take you years to find out just what different things will bear in this way it is best not to risk it, but keep the water away wherever it does not cost too much in labor or money to do so.

(Farmer and Fruit-Grower:) Whether the beggarweed is indigenous to Florida or was brought here in seeds or fertilizers in the early settlement of the State I cannot say positively, but the State I cannot say positively, but as I have noticed another variety of it in the forests where it could have hardly been brought, I am inclined to the former opinion.

My acquaintance with it began in boyhood: it was then, as now, a feature of the landscape in Middle Florida, a waving sea of green covering the cornfields in the late summer, through whose depths I have often waded, drenched to the skin with dew, to some favorite haunt of the finny tribe. Changing from green to gray in winter, these fields become a hunter's paradise, where poor Bob White falls a victim to his fondness for the tiny beans that strew the ground.

ITS DISADVANTAGES.

Like almost all good things this

Like almost all good things this weed has its drawbacks. Where it grows very rank it increases the labor grows very rank it increases the labor of preparing the land for planting in the spring, and it sometimes becomes necessary to drag a heavy chain or a roller over it before the land can be properly turned over. It becomes a nuisance in land where small plants are to be grown, as it covers the ground with a perfect carpet of tiny plants after every rain in summer. It is a positive injury to land where cotton is to be planted. I have often heard old farmers say that "beggarweed improved c.rn land, but injured it for cotton." This fact, which their experience had taught, can be easily accounted for. The beggarweed is a deep feeder; it sends its roots straight into the soil, twelve to twenty inches deep, and robe the subsoil of the very fertility that the cotton plant, with similar roots, must subsist upon. But in this very fact lies its usefulness as

A LAND RENOVATER.

Land that has become impoverished, especially sandy soils whose fertility has been lessened by the evaporation of its ammonia, due to exposure under clean cultivation to our summer suns, and has been drained of its nitrogen by the leaching of the rains, finds its best friend in the beggarweed. The loss by evaporation is checked by a perfect mulch of leaves and the shade of a dense coat of weeds; the truant fertility is pumped up through its millions of roots. The very air pays tribute to the land through this humble plant, which, like the cow pea, feeds largely from the atmosphere and gathers gases to be deposited largely as plant food on the surface of the soil in a coat of leaves. The mechanical condition of the soil is also greatly improved by the decaying mass of roots and stalks, which makes the soil more porous, and at the same time more retentive of moisture. Humus, that most expensive form of certility, is soon produced, and the land same time more retentive of moisture. Humus, that most expensive form of fertility, is soon produced, and the land is rapidly improved.

In proof of these claims, which may seem exaggerated. I will state, what the experience of hundreds of our farmers will verify, that land so poor it would not produce over six bushels of corn to the acre at the time it was first seeded to beggarweed, will, if planted for several consecutive years, in the same crop, increase its yield to twelve or fifteen bushels per acre, without the application of any fertilizer, whatever. Of course, this effect would be greatly hastened and increased by using some form of fertilizer in connection.

AS A FORAGE CROP. AS A FORAGE CROP.

There is a difference of opinion as to the value of beggarweed for hay, some maintaining that it is difficult or impossible to cure it, and that at best it is a rough and unpalatable fodder; while others as positively assert that it while others as positively assert that it is easily saved, and that it makes, especially when mixed with grass, a very fine stock feed. I have had no experience with it as a dry feed, but on onthing its friends and enemies are fully agreed, viz.: That in its green state it is eagerly eaten by stock of all kinds, which prefer it to any other weed or grass that grows, and that nothing will sooner put a poor, rundown animal sooner put a poor, rundown animal in good condition than to turn it into a pasture of beggarweed.

Summing up its virtues we find that it is a valuable forage crop, and one that is easily propagated; that as a renovater of soils it has all the advantages of the cowpea, with the added one that it costs nothing but the original planting to get its benefits over large areas for a long term of years, as it is self-seeding; and, lastly, to get its benefits it is not necessary to lose a single crop, as all its benefits are secured by letting it take possession of the land after most crops are harvested. This last is a great point in its favor. Altogether it is a very valuable plant and a boon to Southern planters if intelligently utilized.

Good Demand for Oliver a foolish article regarding Califor a roolish article regarding California olives which was published by a Philadelphia trade paper, in which the statement was made that California olives did not suit the palates of eastern people, and could not compete with the imported article, because they are of an inferior variety, according to this learned exchange, which evidently has imported article, because they are of an inferior variety, according to this learned exchange, which evidently has a lot to learn about olives in general, and California olives in particular. Very different information is received by dealers in California olives from their correspondents in the Eastern States. These report the increasing popularity of California olives in that section, and orders are coming in rapidly from some of the oldest and most conservative houses of the East. The supply in this section is not equal to the conumption. As The Times has frequently said, it will be some years before Southern California can hope to supply the rapidly increasing demand for pickled olives, not to speak of olive oil.

The importance of the industry may be seen from the fact that the people of the United States imported over $3,000,000 worth of green-olives from the Mediterranean during the year ending June 30, 1895, in addition to the 7,000,000 sent abroad for olive oil, making a total of over $10,000,000 for products which might easily be raised in Southern California. It is certain that as soon as eastern people become well acquainted with the superior qualities of the California product they will have little use for the hard, green, unripe fruit that is now imported from the south of Europe.

THOSE LOVELY PALLS

A maiden of Niagara Falls
A bloomer suit did buy,
And then she got herself a wheel
And thought to ride she'd try.

She fell off quite a dozen times
In going half a mile,
Which caused a hayseed passing by
To stop and broadly smile,

"What are you looking at, my man?".
The maiden loudly calls.
"Excuse me, miss. I came to town
To see your lovely falls."
—(Yonkers Statesman

The Usual Thing.
(Cincinnati Enquirer:) "Til be awfulglad when I'm old enough to do as I please," said Wille.
"Oh, certainly," said his father. "And about as soon as you get to that age you'll get married."

Wonderful Success of Warszawiak as an Evangelist. Narrative of His Own Education and Conversion. Series of Meetings in Los Angele Closing One Last Evening in Peniel Hall-Mission to the Jews Established.

Last evening saw the closing service of the series of meetings held in Los Angeles by Hermann Warszawiak, missionary to the Jews. For several days Mr. Warszawiak has been preaching to crowded houses in the First Congregational Church, Temperance Temple. Simpson Tabernacle and Peniel ple. Simpson Tabernacle and Peniel Hall. Thousands have gone to hear him and so great has been the enthusiasm, that not only money but jewelry of all kinds have been given to, help in the establishment of an auxiliary to the main mission in New York founded by Mr. Warzawisk about 4. Years.

Mr. Warszawiak about six years ago.
At Simpson Tabernacle last Sunday evening the young Polish missionary gave a brief sketch of his early training in the strictest tenets of Judaism and of his conversion to Christianity at the cost of all temporal advantages. He was born in Warsaw in 1866, and, thanks to the wonderful system of gen-ealogy practiced by the Jews, is able

He was born in Warsawian in 1866, and, thanks to the wonderful system of genealory practiced by the Iswa, is able to trace his descent in a direct line from Jakon. The brother of Moses, from Jakon. The hereditary Jewish priesthood.

Hermann Warsawiak, like other hereditary Jewish priesthood at the age of three, where he immediately began the study of Hebrew like extractive, having already learned to read the was ready for confirmation. The was sumption of all responsibility for his test has well as well as the law that all Jewish boys shall be carefully prepared for this rite of confirmation, but the training to whirth the strong of the priesthood, and asked his father why the rite was no longer of the street of the services. The boy was greatly puzzed by the of a young bullock as a sin-offering of those of the priesthood, and asked his father why the rite was no longer of the services. The boy was greatly puzzed by the of a young bullock as a sin-offering control, the searching of the services of the commandments and earnest prayer in the searching of the services of the commandments and earnest prayer in the services of the serv

The old man replied that the sacrifice of a bullock was no longer required because God demanded in its place the sacrifice of the sinner's own body. This was enough. From that time this boy of fourteen began a system of the severest self-torture by way of penance, standing on the snow until his bare feet were frozen; piercing his flesh with pins and needles until the blood streamed down; sleeping on the cold ground with no covering, and fasting for days at a time until he became so weak and emaciated that the old priest became alarmed and sent for the boy's father. Hermann was removed to a hospital, broken in health and despairing in spirit because all his lacerations brought him neither peace nor comfort.

At the age of skteen his father married him to the daughter of a wealthy Jewess of Lodz. The alliance was considered so favorable by the bride's parents that the boy's new father-in-law built him a synagogue of his own, in which the gifted lad began to preach before he was seventeen. Immense congregations flocked to hear him, for he had the gift of eloquence, but peace was as far as ever from his own soul. At last, about four years later, he conceived the idea of studying the writings of the prophets. These were not considered a necessary part of the education of a Jewish boy, and the young rabbi had grown up, studying and teaching Jewish history and literature, but never having heard of a Messiah. In the book of Isaiah he found a saying which filled him with delight: "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be like crimson, they shall be as wool." Here was the first satisfactory answer to the old loubt, and the young man, enchanted with the new idea that forgiveness of sin was possible, and with the hope of a promised Messiah, began at once to teach entirely from the writings of the prophets.

In a few months his congregations tegan to drop off, and soon the disaffee. Ninth Street.

Electric cars are now running regularly on the Ninth-street line. The work of tearing up the old horse-car track and replacing it with a heavy modern track of big ties and heavy rails has been pushed to its completion and the Los Angeles Railway Company is now furnishing a twelve-minute service over the line. There are four cars in use. Starting from Second street they run south on Spring to Flith, west on Flith to Olive, down Olive to Sixth, up Sixth to Pearl and down Pearl to Ninth street, straight out which the cars run to Grand View avenue. Thus about a mile and a half of tracks are used for electric cars for the first time. There is a double track on most of the route, but for the present only a single track is in use on Sixth street.

In a few months his congregations began to drop off, and soon the disaffection went so far that the young rabbi was asked to resign. Pressing for an explanation of this sudden unpopularity, he was told that his people suspected him to be tainted with the doctrines of Christianity. This explained nothing, for he had been so carefully guarded from all knowledge of anything outside the strict Jewish faith that he had never heard of Christ, and did not know of the existence of such a faith as Christianity. The explanation he received so prejudiced him against this religion that when a Christian minister, attracted by the rumors of his conversion, went to see him, he was almost turned out of the house by the rigid young Pharisee, as a representative of the unknown and evil heresy with which he himself had been reprosached.

The Christian went, but he was clever enough to leave a small testament be

The Christian went, but he was clever enough to leave a small testament behind him, without young Warszawiak's perceiving what he had done. The boy saw the book as he returned to the library, and, impelled by curiosity, opened it. The first passage caught his attention, for it spoke of this being the book of the generations of Jesus Christ, inght."

(Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph:)

"Your husband has symptoms of hydrophobia," said the physician, after an examination of his patient. "Has he been bitten by a dog?"

(Oh, no, doctor," replied the alarmed woman. "Ah, now I have it. He ate bologna sausages for supper last night."

the son of Dav'd. This was interesting, and as the boyish rabbi read the genealogy, he became convinced that this Jesus must have belonged to the same house from which he himself had sprung. He read on, becoming so fascinated by the wonder of the story that he read the remainder of the day and all that night. His wife came to call him, and he told her of his discovery of the answer to all the problems that had so vexed his soul, and that the promised Messiah had really come to earth to be a sin-offering for all mankind. The girl wife shook her head. She thought he was mad. The next day the storm burst. Hermann boldly avowed his new belief, and was ordered from the house and the city by his enraged father-in-law. He left home without money and without again seeing his wife or their two little children. In the city he met only insults and revilling where once he had been reverenced as something more than ordinary clay. His own father threatened to put him into the Russian army, which, to a man of his frail physique, was equivalent to a death warrant. To avoid capture and conscription he field to Breslau, in Germany.

On the first night of his stay there he happened to wander into a lighted church, attracted by the music. He spend to have the seemed to be intended especially for him. It was preached by an old Socted fivine, the first Christian missionary to the Jews, and dealt with just the themes upon which young warsaawlab most craved enlightenment. He smost craved enlightenment. He stougt with his man for three months and then became convinced that he should give up Judaism and Gonfess Christianity. This meant giving up all that made life dear, and the viental strings had be her seen had be presented that he should give up Judaism and confess of his there was a single had be presented that he might die before being baptized, and, snatching up a pitcher of water, band a viental strings had been read to see the seen well and the wental strings had been read to see the seen was striken with her w to make the mission an assured fact. One remarkable circumstance lent interest to the meeting last evening at Peniel Hall. This was nothing less than the showing of a picture of Christ as the evangelist saw him in his vision. It was merely a small piece of white paper, cut so as to form a transparency, which, when held up against the light, cast upon the wall the shadow of a divinely beautiful face, unlike any of the portraits of the Christ now extant, by somewhat the same type of face duplicated by Leonardo da Vinclin his famous picture of the "Last Supper." It was of the purest Jewish type, the features straight and delicate, the expression ineffably sweet and strong, in this respect an improvement on Da Vincl's exquisite conception. The people crowded eagerly around to obtain a closer view, but there was no tumult in all the packed building. Everyone was reverent and quiet and the enthusiasm expressed was deep rather than loud.

Mr. Warszawiak leaves the city today, but he leaves behind him not only the remembrance of a most attractive and magnetic personality that impressed everyone with the innate truth and earnestness of the man, but also the germ of a flourishing mission to carry on the work so well begun in New York of spreading Christianity among the Jews.

BELLE WAS ANGRY.

Belle Williams, a colored woman who lives on Commercial street, was arrested twice yesterday, and the second "Yes, as soon as he gets over?" "Yes, as soon as he gets over being seasick." "When a man wants to run for Presitime she made things lively for her aptor. Her first visit to jail made yesterday afternoon on a charge of misdemeanor.

In the evening she gave ball, and was released. About midnight, Officer Wil-kinson arrested her on Commercial street for soliciting, and Belle indigstreet for soliciting, and Belle indignantiy denied the allegation and struck at the officer. She got hold of his club and was making it decidedly unpleasant for him, when a clizen went to the officer's assistance, and in his zeal, Belle says, he struck her in the face.
A call was sent in for the police, and when the patrol wagon arrived Belle was still fighting and screaming. Her clothes were almost torn off in the struggle.

GREAT AMERICAN TRAMP.

COXEY TALKS OF NON-INTEREST-BEARING BONDS.

March to Washington and the Chilly Reception There.

That man of destiny, Jacob S. Coxey, trudged into town yesterday afternoon. In the course of his pedestrian travels he has acquired tons of information upon the subject of national finances and has successfully solved that question which has perplexed the great minds of all ages: How can a man pull himself up by his boot-straps? Last night, at Illinois Hall, he told how to do it.

A large audience gathered, curious to know the secret, but they were kept waiting about thee-quarters of an hour beyond the appointed time before the programme began. Some impatience was manifested, and cries of "rush de growler" were heard from some of the audience, comrades, doubtless, of the orator of the evening in some of his weary tramps. Finally the chairman introduced to the audience two "members of the old guard." who roused some applause by a song, "The Populists are getting there as sure as you are born." The crowd was especially pleased with the refrain, "Hurrah for the right—keep off the grass."

The chairman rose and elicited a storm of applause by the specious declaration that he believed in referring everything, great or small, to the people. As he went on to observe, "when we want anything we will come to the people," the faces of the knowing ones fell, for they began to smell a rat, and

Just set the day you'll hear us; The crowd'll come and cheer us; And what will you think When we take our soat On the grass that was raised for you?"

The Patient Father Talks Politics

The Patient Father Talks Polities.

(Truth:) "Father," said the youthful Interrogation Point, as he neatly carved his initials on the leg of the office table—"father, what is a politician?"

"A politician, my boy," the Patient Father replied, thoughtfully, "is a man who works sixty seconds a minute, sixty minutes an hour, twenty-four hours a day and three hundred and sixty-five days each calendar year, to save his country."

"What is he a politician for?"

"For his health solely," the Patient Father replied, studiously avoiding the eyes of George Washington, whose portrait was hanging on the wall near by, "Does the politician ever save the country?"

"Yes, my son, every time his party wins."

"What is a gerrymander?"

"A gerrymander, my son, is what one party calls another party's reappointment."

"And a favorite son, father?"

"A favorite son is a statesman with a Presidential boom well backed by a corpulent barrel," the Patient Father answered, mechanically raising his eyes to a lithograph of a man named Morton.

"What is reform?" continued the youthful interrogation Point.

"A gold brick, as a usual thing," sighed the Patient Father. "You turn the rascals out, turn a lot of fools in, have your taxes raised and find your Sunday growler relegated to innocuous desuctude. Hayseeds, my boy, are not the only people who get buncoed," the father continued, his sympathetic eyes resting for a moment upon a map of New York.

"And party pledges, father, what are they?"

"Party pledges are things that engage in the ice business to a very limited extent after election."

"What do they mean by saying that a man has his lightning rod up?"

"They mean that he is hoping the Presidential lightning will come his way. This sort of lightning differs from the regulation lightning, because of the fact that it sometimes strikes twice in the same place. It has never struck three time yet, but some people

"Because there's usually a very loud report that Barkis is willin."
"What is a boss, father?"
"A boss," the Patient Father replied, glancing cautiously around and locking the safe as he spoke. "A boss, my hoy, is a necessary evil. He presses the button for his party, and also goes around to the primaries in time to do the rest."

ORPHEUM-Vaudeville TO DWARF NEW YORK.

It did not seem rational to suppos that Chicago was going to sit down quiet-like and allow Greater New York to jump all over her with its newlyacquired two million pairs of human feet. Already a scheme is on foot in the city by the lake which, if carried will enable Chicago to politely tell Greater New York to go and 'chase itself" in a hunt for more pop-

The scheme of Chicago as reported in the newspapers of that city, is nothing less than the consolidation of all the municipalities in Cook county. Illinois, of which county Chicago is the chief city, under a single city government, thereby extending the city limits to the limits of the county.

Ye gods, just think of it, all Cook county one city! When that is accomplished Greater New York will, territorially speaking, bear about the sam relation to Chicago that a mosquito does to an elephant: and, as to population, the latter will be able to boa that more infants are born every twenty-four hours within its corporate limits than are ushered into the light of Greater New York in a whole week. As one Chicago paper says: "It will leave New York a mere ward in territorial extent as compared with her western rival."

A plan of the scheme has been submitted to Mayor Swift of Chicago who cordially favors it, or any other scheme, he says, which will bring about unification of all municipalities in Cook county under one central municipal government. It is also approved by the county board which, at a meeting, adopted resolutions to that

The Philadalphia Press of June 2 publishes the results of a canvass made among Republican Senators and Congressmen still remaining in Washington on June 1, to ascertain their es for Vice-President Although quite a number of members of both houses refused to express any preferences, the net result showed Speaker Reed to be the first choice of Republican members of the House, while Levi P Morton led in the Senate. The Republicans clubs of Los Angees, very properly, are preparing for a grand rally, to be held soon after the close of the St. Louis convention, to ratify the nominations. A meeting is to be held on Wednesday evening in Judge Morrison's court room, at which plans are to be formed for the ratification meeting. All earnest Republicans are invited to participate in the confer ence on Wednesday evening. Maj McKinley's nomination, which is now bolt. The praiseworthy initiative of the Republican club should be cordially ascarry the country. They will carry it sisted by all true and zealous Repub licans. Let us make the ratification by a tremendous majority, and that is the quickest way to get rid of this a cyclone of enthusiasm.

There is one institution in this ountry which, it is safe to say, does not consider marriage a failure. The late Thomas Sloan provided in his will that if his widow should remarry, the sum of $200,000 which he left her would revert to Yale University. As Mrs. Sloan preferred a second husband to the money, the formal announcement was made at the last meeting of the Yale corporation that Mr. Sloan's be quest had been received and devoted to the library fund. Mrs. Sloan has the double satisfaction of knowing that she pleased herself while also being the indirect means of adding to the resources of the great collegiate institution. But it was a pretty big price to pay for a "mere man.

The Cleveland World says Mr. Cleve land has lately made two startling discoveries, one that there is a serious deficit in the national treasury; other that the Chicago convention is to e a silver convention, with Senator having practically wiped the Demo-Harris of Tennessee as chairman and Vice-President Stevenson its nominee de siecle Democrats are entitled to a gentleman whose existence Mr. Cleveland, it is said, had quite forgotten. The reason why, says the World, Mr. Cleveland is surprised at these things is that he has been so engaged contemplating himself, and get that he is only one of 70,000,000 people who have something to say about the government and the way it is run. The Philadelphia Ledger rises to remark that Mark Hanna's latest scheme is to stampede the convention to Mc Kinley. Bless the innocence of its dear old soul, but where have its eyes been for the last several weeks not to have discovered that the stampede is now on, having been started by the people a couple of months ago, and they do not propose to stop it until they have their grand Republican round-up at St. Louis next week. As for Mr. Hanna, he has had to do some tall hustling to keep out of its way.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

ORPHEUM. There is the usual programme of jolly and clever things at the Orpheum this week, and there was the usual big audience in attendance last night to give the show the sort of a send-off it deserved.

There are two strong features added to some of the best things in last week's bill, the most unique of which is Mons. Chevrial, the trick violinist, who gets stirring music out of the instrument not only with conventional strands of horse hair, but with sundry other things, in lieu of a bow; such, for instance, as a linen collar, si big spoon, a lady's shoe, a feather, a toy pistol, and a toy boat; indeed, it does not appear nocessary for Chevrial to have any sort of a bow, he can scrape the strings against the moulding of the proscenium arch and get music out of them, or accomplish a like result with "any old thing." He does not pretend to play classical pleces, but he fetches an old-fashioned dance tune, or a popular air out of the little box, in a way to warm the cockles of the heart and to set the feet of young blades upstairs to beating time with unction.

Fields and Lewis are another jolly pair of strangers, who caught on promptly. They rattle off jokes and joshes in volleys, and sing a succession of parodies that are full of galety and ginger.

Watson and Du 'Fre sprung a big of parodies that are full of galety and ginger.

Watson and Du 'Pre sprung a big string of new songs and witticisms that were applauded to the echo.
Morton and Mack sung, played the bag-pipe from "ould Ireland," and danced frollosome steps in a highly hilarious and ornate manner. They are a smashing fine team of comedians, and their work is good from start to finish. Carr and Jordan repeated their travesty of the previous week, Mr. Carr adding two new ballads and a verse of "The Old Sexton," all of which he sang extremely well. Then Ransone told stories, shooting his lances of wit at random among the rounders and the politicians, and sang several ditties, one about "a little piece of string" being especially fetching, the Nightons concluding the performance with their splendid exhibition of strength. It is a right good show, and the Orpheum is good amusement for anybody's summer night.

FIELD OF POLITICS.

Democrats Admit that Republicans Must Gain Victory.

Mr. Cleveland's Disappointment in the Government Revenues.

e Free-silver Cyclone — Quay maint Musing—The Administra-tion's Record—Prohibitionists' "National Party,"

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean writes that a prom-inent Democrat who was intimately as-sociated with Chairman Harrity in the sociated with Chairman Harrity in the last Presidential campaign, with close personal relation, not only with Mr. Harrity, but with the President and leading eastern politicians generally, said in commenting upon Harrity's let-ter: "That can only be interpreted to mean that our eastern Democrats have given up hope of controlling the conven-tion and that they have no thought of making a nomination of their own, even if the convention nominates a free-silver man on a 16-to-1 free-silver platform." "What will the eastern Democrats do

"What will the eastern Democrats do in case that happens?" was asked.
"Simply stand aside, I suppose, and let things go by default. Of course a Democrat on a free-sliver platform could not carry a single eastern State. It would be useless to think of it or to make a fight for success in the East."
"Then that would mean the election of a Republican President, would it not?"

not?"
"Undoubtedly there could be but one result from such a combination of circumstances."

(New York Commercial Advertiser: It is not surprising that Mr. Cleveland at last rejuctantly admits that there is a

It is not supprising that Mr. Cleveland at last rejuctantly admits that there is a "disappointment in government revenue." Apparently, he has been scrutinizing the receipts of the Wilson-Gorman law for the month of May. Not in ten years, with one exception, have government receipts for May been so small and only in one month since the miserable Democratic apology for a revenue law went into force have customs receipts fallen below those for the month just ended.

The total receipts for May are not only $6,000,000 less than they were under the last Republican tariff in May, 1893, a panic year, but they are over $600,000 less than they were for May, 1895, under the present tariff. As compared with May, 1892, the customs receipts for last month show a falling off of over $2,100,000, while there is a loss of $1,500,000 even as compared with May, 1895. Instead of receipts increasing under the Democratic tariff they are steadily declining. And yet there are some bat-like politicians who insist that the tariff shall not be "disturbed!"

Free-silver Cyclone.

(Washington Special to Chicago Post, June 2:) Nothing is talked of in Washington but the free-silver cyclone that is sweeping Chicagoward. Its probable effect on the popular vote is discussed by politicians to the total neglect of nearly every other topic. As a political sensation it grows in importance every hour, and threatens to develop, in Democratic estimation, into heroic proportions. Sound-money Democrats, while confessing defeat, ask sneeringly where the free-silverites are going to get the money with which to run the campaign. Those who have had experience say a Presidential campaign costs in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 all told, and that there is only one city in the country educated up to the point of giving nugely for campaign purposes, that city being New York. The great bulk of the sinews of war is raised among the heavy interests centering in the metropolis.

Will Get Its Death Blow.

(From Washington Special to Chicago Times-Herald, June 2:) Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island said today: "If the Republicans at St. Louis pominate McKinley on a square sound-money platform, as they doubtless will, he will carry every Northern State east of the Rocky Mountains, two States on the Pacific Coast, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, and possibly Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee. The country will decide so overwhelmingly in favor of protection and sound money that the sliver craze will be given its death blow, and after November next it will quietly disappear." Will Get Its Death Blow.

Quay's Quaint Musing

(New York Commercial Advertiser:)
Ex-Congressman Beriah Wilkins of Washington, late of Ohio, went hunting and fishing with Senator Quay some weeks ago, and it seems the Pennsylvaria leader indulged in reflections that were the result of unconscious cerebral

"He never said a word about politics," said Mr. Wilkins, "but now and then, in a half dreamy way, as if he were communing with himself, he would say:

"I wonder if McKinley will get it? Well, why should he not?" and then, 'It looks like McKinley. That was all he said on the subject. He received several hundred dispatches and many letters while we were on this jaunt together."

"Then you are not supported."

Then you are not surprised that he mits that McKinley will be nomi-"Oh, not at all."

A Sound Record.

A Sound Record.

(Asbury, N. J., Park Star:) Nationa Republican Delegate T. Frank Appleby who will start for St. Louis on June 13 is perhaps the most sanguine McKin ley man of the entire Jersey delegation Mr. Appleby said that he believed McKinley would be nominated on the firs ballot. "You know," he said, "that am an out-and-out McKinley man, and I look on Senator Platt's attempt the prejudice the delegates against the Ohio man as entirely uncalled for, and I certainly believe his action in thi matter will weaken his influence at St. Louis. McKinley's record on the financial question is sound. He favors protection and sound money. He is patry ofter, and thoroughly in sympathy with the free-school system of this country. No other candidate has been asked twrite his platform before the convertion, and I see no reason why McKin ley should be compelled or even expected to do so."

(Springfield, O., Special to Tole lade, June 2:) In an interview tod ith D. J. Thomas, who is secretary ne Executive Committee of the n ational party organized at Pittsburg

"The party organized at Pittsburg represents 170,000 of the 270,000 Prohibition voters of the country. The National party men will push their organisation in every State with promptnes and vigor, and headquarters for the present will be located at Alliance, the new of Hon. L. B. Logan, charms of the new movement; later they will be moved to Chicago. The present or-ganisation of the Prohibition party will go to pieces, two-thirds of the officers and candidates of the old party will re-sign and join our party. We will place in nomination State, district and county candidates throughout the Union, and the convention will probably be held July 15."

The Administration's Record The Administration's Record.
(Topeka State Journal:) The estimation in which the Democratic administration is held is thus summarized by the Denver Republican: Carlisle has lost Kentucky; Wilson has lost West Virginia; Morton has lost Nebraska; Herbert has lost Alabama; Hoke Smith has lost Georgia; little Eckels has lost Illinois and Harmon is going to lose Ohlo, to the silver men. Of all the members of the present Cabinet, Olney is the only man who has not been repudiated in his own State on the money question, except Lamont, and nobody can tell what New York will do.

Col. Ochiltree's Opision.

(New York Tribune:) Col. Thomas P. Ochiltree says he doesn't claim to be an original McKinley man, but he knows enough to come in and support the winner. Mr. Ochiltree has just returned from Washington, and, in talking about the political situation as he found it over there, he remarked: "In the Presidential race, at the outset, my preference was for another, so I cannot lay craim to be an original McKinley man, and for that matter my preference is for another yet, but I am not stubborn and pig-headed. After talking with people over the country and the leaders one cannot fall to see that there is no earthly chance of defeating Maj. McKinley for the nomination. I do not believe that the first roll-call will ever be finished at St. Louis. I can recognize in Maj. McKinley a true gentlemen, an able statesman and a man who will make a rood President.

A Severe Scoring.

(Louisville Courier-Journal:) They (the free-silver Kentucky democrats) have repudiated the only President the Democratic party has elected and seated for forty years. They have repudiated the most distinguished of Kentucky's distinguished sons and the greatest Democratic intellect in the United States. They have spit upon the fathers of the party whose name and organization they claim, have proclaimed Jefferson an ignoramus, Jackson a conspirator, Benton a knave, Cleveland a traitor. For the faith handed down through a hundred years of glorious party history they have substituted a fad rejected by every intelligent civilization on the globe, and for the exponents of that faith they have substituted such apostles of Populism as Stewart, such exhorters of socialism as Tillman, such evangels of anarchism as Altgeld.

Make Himself Grotesque.

New York Mall and Express:) How is Mr. Depew getting on with that Morton nominating speech? Does Mr. Depew remember how ridiculous Charles Emory Smith made himself at Chicago in 1888, when he used his splendid oratorical gifts to nominate for President a man named Fitler? No one knew who Fitler was, and everybody knew that, whoever he might be, he had no more chance of being nominated than T. C. Platt. It took Mr. Smith some years to outgrow the Fitler speech, and Fitler himself received so little prestige from his Presidential candidacy that when his obituary is read this morning it almost requires an effort of mind to place him. Is there not danger that Dr. Depew will make both Gov. Morton and himself grotesque? Make Himself Grotesque.

Re Put Out of Misery.

(New York Mall and Express:) Poor Platt! To use his own picturesque metaphor, he has gone out into the highway and bitten himself, after having harmlessly vented his venom against William McKinley. And no one seems to pity his writhings. The avalanche which is about to drop on him here in New York will. however, mereifully put him out of his misery.

The Silver Party for Him.

(Washington Star.) A big boom for Teller is being worked up in the east among the followers of the American silver party, which has headquarters here. The delegates from Pennsylvania to the St. Louis silver convention will, it is said, be almost solidly for him, although Wharton Barker will have many friends. The same feeling as to Teller is growing in the other eastern and in the New England States. If he would accept it he could have the nomination of the combined silver conventions which meet at St. Louis July 22. The booming is being done by Teller's friends. Nobody knows what are his views or what he would do. The prevailing opinion is that Senator Teller doesn't want the Presidential nomination of any party. He is earnestly for silver, and wants to see it win. Many believe that he will recommend that the silver men of the West support the nominee of the Chicago convention, as. in his opinion, the best chance to win. The Silver Party for Him.

"Free Silver Rebellion (Topeka State Journal:) It is no longer the "free silver craze," now it is the "free silver conspiracy." If the gold standard organs keep their ears to the ground they may be styling it the free silver rebellion before fall.

CAMPAIGN SHOTS.

(Chicago Tribune:) The report that Cleveland is "saying nothing and look-ing wise" is only partly correct. It is "otherwise." (Toledo Blade:) The Jenness Miller skirt convention promises to be quite a fad this year. The Prohibitionists tried it with great success.

(Detroit Journal.) There is no mud throwing by Reed, Allison or Morton Not even by Quay. Platt seems to hav the pile all to himself. (Toledo Biade:) Did the Allison boom wander over to St. Louis last week and become entangled in that tornado? It has not been heard of since.

(Kansas City Star:) The platform of the St. John-Gougar party has thirteen planks but it will hold together just as well as if it had twelve or fourteen.

(San Francisco Bulletin:) Mr. Reed continues to persist in the erroneous belief that a ticket on which he would be second would be top-heavy at the wrong end. wrong end.

(San Francisco Bulletin:) Mr. Platt's recent abounding silence is generally believed to cover a still hunt for a good place to plant the Morton Vice-Presidential lightning-rod.

(Chicago Inter Ocean:) The fellows who undertake to go behind the June returns in St. Louis will find it uphill business. The people of the United States are in the saddle.

(New York Mail and Express:) The search for a Democratic Presidential candidate will now be conducted with a microscope. The searchlight of publicity has failed to discover as much as a shadow.

(Santa Ana Standard:) The Los Angeles City Council have instructed the City Clerk to issue no license to a circus for a Sunday performance. Bless their souls, they prefer more elevating sports, such as baseball, horse racing and slogging matches.

(San Bernardino Sun.) A hardware traveling man who visited Redlands a day or two ago reported that he took more orders for corkscrews on one trip than during the entire year previous. There are evidently some thirsty souls in Redlands who look askance at prohibition.

(Santa Barbara El Barbereño:) The progress of the electric railroad is evidence of the necessity of much wind to fill the flapping sails of any great enterprise that may be launched. After a year of talk, the busines of the "Consolidated" seems to be assuming shape: more rails have been ordered, the route definitely mapped out, and work will soon begin in earnest, it is a good thing, and the builders should be given every possible encouragement.

(Winchester Record:) Owing to the advance in the price of butter from 25 cents to 38 cents a roll, the creamery company has decided to make butter twice a week, instead of manufacturing cheese exclusively. Cheese has been sold to suply the local demand, but little has yet been sent out of the county, as the market is flooded with cheese from northern creameries and from Compton. But as it will improve with age for some time yet, the creamery people are not in any hurry to dispose of it.

ery people are not in any nurry to dispose of it.

(Redding Democrat:) The proposition to hold an encampment of the State militia at San Francisco on the 4th of July does not meet with the general approbation of the companies outside of San Francisco. To make her celebration a grand success and in order to have the "grandest military' parade ever held" there San Francisco will exert herself in the direction of having all the companies of the State ordered to the Presidio on the 4th. Many interior towns throughout the State intend to celebrate the coming 4th and the taking away on that day of the home companies of militia would work a hardship and in some instances put an end to celebrations. It is hardly just that the companies should be called to 'Frisco, Heretofore home parades have always been had and the same should be ordered for this year. San Francisco ought to be able to celebrate the 4th in grand style without trying to hog everything from the interior of the State.

The recent fire in the oil district should not be permitted to pass into his-tory as a forgotten incident until its lesson has been impressed upon the minds of thoughtless operators. There is no more danger from fire in the oil district than in any other section of the city, under ordinary conditions. A great deal of heat is necessary before the igniting point is reached in the heavy fuel oil, and from this very cause a desperate recklessness has become common throughout the field. A few months ago, a driller lowered an ordimonths ago, a driller lowered an ordi-nary lantern into his well hole, and the on that followed nearly resulted in the loss of his life. Saturday night's fire is asserted to have been the result of burning rubbish in a back yard, surrounded by pits of refuse oil and tanks from which the oil was slowly leaking. Whenever an accident occurs resulting Whenever an accident occurs resulting in damage, the carelessness is usually charged to children. The fuel-oil is so easily handled that bollers and engines are almost left to operate themselves, too frequently no man being found near some of them while running under escaping steam, and a giaring flame, fed to fierceness by an oil spray. The meeting of the Fourth of July Executive Committee last evening was largely attended, and much important business was transacted. The committee has reached that point in its labors where a glorious observance of the aniversary of American independence is plainly in sight. Letters were read from a number of patriotic citizens wishing the committee every success in its efforts, and from local organizations eccepting invitations to participate in the parade. The secretary was directed to telegraph to Senator White and Congressman McLachlan inviting them to participate in the celebration.

NEWSBOYS' HOME.

ABIDING-PLACE FOR FRIEND-LESS LITTLE FELLOWS.

The plans have all been drawn and the specifications made out for the new building of the News and Working Boys' flome, and it is hoped that by the time October comes around the little fellows who have to shift for themselves will be established in a snug selves will be established in a snug and cosy home—not an asylum, but a genuine home.

With a portion of the money raised by the Times subscription list, a fine lot has been bought, a plece of property fronting on San Pedro street, near Eighth, measuring 80 by 140 feet. The selection of a site is thought fortunate, for it is in a residence portion of the town, and far enough from the business center to save the boys from the center to save the boys from the town, and far enough from the business center to save the boys from the temptation of being on the streets at night.

The next thing was to plan the building. Morgan & Walls, the architects, drew the plans, prepared all the specifications and will oversee the actual work of construction, all without charge, as their donation to a worthy enterprise. These plans and specifications are now at the office of M. E. Threlkeld. No. 328 South Broadway, where bids are being received. The bids will be opened Monday, June 22, and then it is hoped to go right ahead with the work. The aim is to build the home solidly and well, with firm foundations and heavy timbers, but it is hoped the contractors will make their figures unusually low, in consideration of the object. Separate bids will be called for on each part of the work, the foundation-laying, the woodwork, the plastering, etc., but one contractor can, of course, bid for the whole thing.

The Newsboys' Home will be a two-story frame structure, 40x70 feet in size, substantial, roomy and yet of attractive exterior. It is so planned that wings can be added which will increase the accommodations, without injuring the appearance of the structure, for it is hoped the building about to be erected will be only a nucleus.

On the ground floor of the building will be a reception hall, extending into a wide center hall, which will run from end to end of the building. To the right as one, enters will open the office, and at the left the reception-room. Next to the office will be the matron's room; then the stairs and in the rear corner a bedroom Across the hall, next to the reception room, will be the big diming-room, with a bay window through which a flood of light will open on the big screened porch.

At the front of the second floor will be a cheerful reading-room, farther back the sewing-room, and four comfortable bedrooms. The entire building is liberally supplied with bathrooms and closets.

One highly commendable feature of the blan is that there will be no crowding of thirt a single room, and in some rooms not more than two.

"We want to make it seem just as much like a real home as possible," said Mrs. M. E. Threlkeld, president of the board of managers. "What we very much want is a separate room for each of the boys, so that each one can feel that he has at least one place in the world that is wholly his, that he can 'fix up' as much as, he likes. We want the boys to feel they can buy a pretty rug or a new bedstead and make their rooms just as cosy as they like.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

The Monday Musical Club was most hospitably and delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon by the Ebell, at the latter's cosy rooms on South Main street. The musical programme, which, with the exception of one number, was rendered entirely by members of the club, was extremely enjoyable. An especially pleasing feature of the musicale was Miss Beresford Joy's charming singing. Her voice is rich, sweet and smooth, and full of expression, and her accent and enunciation in the two French songs, Lalo's "L'Esclave" and Massenet's "Ouvres tes jeux bleux," were noticeably pure and clear. Mrs. Botsford played a plano solo, "Cantique d'Amour," by Lisst; Mrs. Orr Haraison sang "Thou Brilliant Bird." by David, very charmingly; Mrs. Macneil and the Misses Rogers played a trio by Richardson for violin, cello and plano; Mrs. J. G. Ccarborough's rendering of Tosti's "Could I" was so warmly encored that she responded with a cradle song by Kate Vannah. Miss Dora James gave a violin solo, Mrs. Burdette sang "Les adleux de Hotesse Arabe," by Bizet; and Mrs. Macneil, the Misses Rogers, James and Mullins gave a string quartette, Moszkowski's "Serenta," which received an encore. Miss Ida M. Frye read a most interesting paper on the origin and development of the novel. At the close of the programme frappe and cake were served. Among those present were: Madames—Harriet Strong, Ryan, Gilbert E. Overton, Ewen, G. G. Mullins, W. D. Larrabee, George Bugbee, Roth Hamilton, Modini-Wood, Burnham, L. S. Thompson, Schallert, Dean Mason, Ira O. Smith. "But with the little money we have, we can't afford to build a home big enough to give all the boys separate rooms. But we hope that when we build a wing to the building it can be used mainly for this purpose and the present bedrooms used for sewing-rooms, game-rooms, etc.

He is displaying something which makes the eyes of his friends bulge out with wonder—a gold brick weighing 289 ounces, worth between $5000 and $6000, the clean-up of the operation of the mine for twenty-three days. The fine yellow brick is on its way to the San Francisco mint. The great Visnaga mine is seventy-five miles back from Ensenada, in the mountains at an elevation of 4000 feet. A force of sixty-five men is steadily employed there. A Gold Brick.

There are scores of chances for sharp buyers at Desmond's cut-price hat sale; so many, in fact, that there couldn't be more. We ask all who doubt it to look in at Nos. 202 and 204 South Spring street, Wilcox building, and see for themselves. All straw hats this week at regular wholesale prices.

Read and think. At Desmond's cut-price hat sale in the new Wilcox block they are selling $2.50, and $3 stiff hats (all colors) for $11; straws for 25, 50 and 75 cents; 50 and 75-cent neckwear, all shapes and styles, for 25 cents. With bargains like these before you looking is buying.

days has been planned.

There was so much confusion attendant upon the commencement exercises of the Medical College, as is usual on such occasions, that a large proportion of the flowers sent to the graduates went astray. Thus the graduates have been unable to thank the friends who remembered them, which has occasioned much annoyance.

SOCIAL EVILS.

Ountess Wachtmeister Lectures on Vital Topics of the Day. Countess Wachtmelster lectured be fore a large audience in the Friday Morning Club Hall last evening on "Social Evils of the Day." Selfishness was the first evil discussed, the speaker showing how it is engendered from the very earliest age, by each trying to out-run his brother to get the so-called good shares of life, and by fostering ambition in the youth. Drunkenness and its horrors were then taken up in forcible anguage, the speaker declaring the best remedy to be vegetarianism.

The Countess then turned to the social position of woman, saying that woman is not a separate creation from man, but each is a part of one whole. The woman is the inspirer, and the man is the creator. The true woman will always try to elevate man and appeal to the better part of him. Woman can never have too much knowledge. The more she learns the better helpmeet The more she learns the better helpmeet she will be to her husband. The true, the false and the unfortunate women were then dwelt upon, and the speaker denounced in severe language the immorality of the present day, saying that if women would only publicly denounce and cover with opprobrium the man who ruins a young girl there would be less of such crimes. If women would only take up the cudgels in defense of their unfortunate sisters, the foundling hospitals would be less crowded. People were advised not to send their money to India for the child widows, whose condition has been greatly exaggerated, but to spend it at home in eradicating the evils in this country. The speaker then dwelt upon the remedy for all these evils, begging all to think more of the sorrow and unhappiness about them, to send out their sympathies, to deal in their power to comfort and help. To try to have some idea of their responsibilities, to help the poor and to teach the children.

The Whole or None. (London Tit-Bits:) "I've come to ask for your daughter's hand, Mr. Herrick," said young Wailer, nervously.
"Oh, well, you can't have it," said Herrick. "I'm not doling out my daughter on the installment sysetm. When you feel that you can support the whole girl, you may call again."

Then He Went Home.

(Indianapolis Journal:) "Dou you never," asked the tedious young man in the course of his maunderings—"do you never feel that intense longing for solitude?" "Yes," said the outspoken girl; "right

Judge Bean's Facetions Entry on the Police Blotter.

"Tootsey Wootsey, lost boy, postoffice, delivered to his pop," was the rather amusing entry which appeared on the blotter at police headquarters on the blotter at police headquarters last night. The entry referred to a 4-year-old urchin who was found munching a piece of cake in the postoffice by a postoffice clerk at 6:30 o'clock last night. The little fellow said he was lost and the clerk telephoned to Police Headquarters and Officer Long came and took him to the station.

Efforts of the officers to have him give his name were unsuccessful and Judge Bean, being in a happy frame of mind, grew facetious and designated the boy as related above. Later the boy's father came to the Police Station and took him home, but failed to leave his name.

Tony Baxter was arrested on Main street at 10 o'clock last night by Officer Rohn and sent to police headquarters where he was locked up on a charge of petty larceny. Baxter had in his possession, when arrested, a gunny sack filled with articles which, it is said, were stolen from a room on Main street. Among the articles in the sack was a wire cutter and other pieces of hardware. Baxter will be arraigned before Justice Moyrison this afternoon.

Robert Porter Describes a Visit

Japanese Competition with American Capital and Labor.

"Before I left Japan." said Robert P. Porter, at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on his arrival after a passage of fourteen days and sixteen hours on the steamship Peru, "a syndicate was formed in Japan to build and operate a new line of steamships, to run from New York. Philadelphia and Portland, Or., to Japan. They expect to operate from Portland, and they may run a line from San Diego. S. Asano, a wealthy Japanese, who is at the head of the company, will arrive here in a few days. He visits the United States to make a special inquiry into our ship-building resources, with a view to having these steamships constructed in this country. The share-holders will have several 7000-ton steamers. They are stimulated to this action by the new law adopted by the Japanese government. a month ago, granting a subsidy of nearly 310 a ton for vessels over 6000 tons. This subsidy is deemed sufficient to pay all the operating expenses of these steamers."

Robert P. Porter's friendship for James G. Blaine and William McKinley, his advocacy of Blaine's tariff principles and his reciprocity doctrine, together with the trips he has made to all parts of the world, investigating the industrial conditions of leading nations of the world, with relation to their bearing and influence upon the prosperity of the American people; his writings and speeches upon the tariff and upon American statistics—all these have made him a world-wide man.

Porter was a journalist for many years, visited England in the interest of the New York Tribune and Philadelphia Press and other papers, was superintendent of the tenth census under Harrison's administration, founded the New York Press and is the proprietor of the Cleveland World. When he came to the Pacific Coast three months ago, en route to Japan, he came as the personal representative of McKinley.

The question of Japanese competition had reached the stage calling for a out a tithe of their requirements for comforts or luxures—the application of nineteenth century methods, by a people living in tenth century conditions, in competition with nations of nineteenth century conditions.

Porter said that he believes this question of meeting the competition to come from products of Japanese manufacture, to be one of the greatest commercial problems the American nation will have to solve.

cial problems the American nation will have to solve.

"The Japanese are wiping out European competition on their own soil, and in European nations, wherever they meet it. If they can do all this with the nations of Europe, what can they not do when they once get started in this direction?" said Porter.

"Is it not probable." asked Judge Waymire, "that with the growth of intelligence among the Japanese people, increase in their productive skill, and enlargement of their ideas, their wants will correspondingly grow, thus enhancing the cost of living, to a cost commensurate with the cost in this country?"

still buy in England. They supply the home demand for cotton cloth, and also send some to England.

"One thing they must have, as they produce the finer qualities of yarns, that is our cotton. Last year they bought $2,500,000 worth of American cotton. In order to secure the trade England has now with China they must have our cotton, and it was largely in view of this fact that the Japanese Parliament took action a month tgo, regarding the subsidy above mentioned, that has led to the formation of the new steamship syndicate.

"Ten years ago they made $60,000 worth of matches, only $335 worth of mattings and rugs were not mentioned in their reports. Last year these had increased to, matches, $4,700,000, and this year it will be $5,000,000; mattings and rugs, $7,000,000.

"Most of these maiches, after their home trade was supplied, went to India, excepting about $20,000 worth, which were shipped to the United States.

"The Americans sold to Japan last

"Most of these matches, after their home trade was supplied, went to India, excepting about $20,000 worth, which were shipped to the United States.

"The Americans sold to Japan last year only $9,000,000, while they purchased from her $44,000,000. England, on the other hand, sold to Japan $6,000,000 and only purchased $7,000,000 from her. Japan thus took our $54,000,000 ner. Japan thus took our $54,000,000 or good hard American gold, and, after chinking every dollar of it, to see that it is good (as the Japanese do, by bitting it between their teeth) they added another $2,000,000 in gold of their own to it and turned the whole over to England, less a paltry $7,000,000 taken from England in exchange.

"One of the greatest evils of Japan is the jinrickasha men. Out of a population of $6,000,000 there are 1,250,000 people performing work similar to that of our street-car horses in this country, and 1,000,000 pushing carts and wagons, acting as beasts of burden, a great bar to intellectual development. In any estimate of the industrial future of Japan, these must be taken into consideration because they take an enormous working force from the producing power of the people.

"All the work of loading vessels, shoveling coal and longshore work, such as is done in this country by horses, where they lead the horses, is done by women in Japan. Therefore, the women wear the trousers and the men go in gowns, except the jinrickasha men. The women are thus taken away from their natural duties in life, rearing of families and bringing up children. This is a source of constant weakness and I do not see how Japan is to get along with this great question.

"The jinrickasha men last from eighteen to thirty years. They can make seven and one-half miles an hour, and can go fifty miles a' day, dragging a passenger. In order to keep up this work they are compelled to eat five meals a day, and food a good deal more substantial than the ordinary food."

"They inrickasha men last from eighten to thirty years. They can make seven and one

"What wages to the jinrickasha men receive?"

"They average about 25 sen a day, taking the jinrickasha man and the cart bearer, about 13 cents for that very hard work. This is a source of weakness. They are simply doing work that we can do much cheaper. Even at that price this work is dear. Take say 250,000 men in this country at $1 a day. This would cost us $75,000,000 per annum. Assuming that the Japanese work for 10 cents a day, this would cost them $6,500,000. I believe we could do all that work with our electric cars for $7,500,000.

"Are they using electricity there?"
"Yes, a little in Kioto; horse cars in Toklo, and in some other parts. They are using electricity there, because it is a great thing for earthquakes."

"Electricity good for earthquakes! How is that?"

"When the houses go to pieces in an earthquake, they take fire from kerosene, candles cr gas, but with electricity they do not. However, the trouble from earthquakes is largely exaggerated; they are only feared by the nativas and a newcomer does not notice months.

"I visited the silk region, both of the north and south, and went through all the districts where they cultivate silk, where they make the flature, spin it and weave it. They are in Japan about 1,000,000 weavers. They are not half employed now, but are glad to work for a sum equivalent to about 10 cents of our money a day, which would be considered high wages. The majority work for 5 cents a day and do the same beautiful work.

"As cotton spinners, weavers of cloth, whether in their houses, or in the small

"As cotton spinners, weavers of cloth, whether in their houses, or in the small factories, or in the large modern factories, of which there are many in Japan, I do not think they can be excelled by any nationality. They are easily the most competent the most doelle and perfectly willing to contract their services for periods of three to six years. Breaking of contracts of this kind are almost unknown, especially among the women thus engaged.

"So far as I am able to see, the treatment of these women was all right from their point of view. They were well cared for, many of them sleeping on the premises. In one mill I found 1500 girls living within the walls of the mill. The Japanese work their machinery twenty-three hours out of the twenty-four, when they put in modern machinery, and only stop long enough to oil up and let the machinery rest. They have two forces, a day force and a night force, the girls alternating each week.

"I also visited the districts where they made mattings, rugs, matches, umbrellas, surgical intruments, hardware, tooth brushes and all kinds of leather goods, such as valless. I made a thorough examination into all these lines of trade.

"A natural question in the mind of umbreilas, surgical infruments, hardware, tooth brushes and all kinds of leather goods, such as valises. I made a thorough examination into all these lines of trade.

"A natural question in the mind of the American or the European is, has this country coal anl iron ore, and does it manufacture iron? As a rule the civilization of a country is gauged by the amount of iron or steel it consumes. The answer to this question is that Japan needs badly 100,000 tons of steel for its immediate necessities, assuming that it did not increase its railroad mileage a single mile. So far as I have been able to find out, it does not make 5000 tons.

"They have no less than fourteen open coal fields in various parts of Japan, some of which are quite productive, while the geological surveys recently made are said to show up in Yeso 500,000,000 tons of coal. A little further south. I visited provinces where it was estimated that iron mines existed containing 15,000,000 tons. In the south there is an iron sand said to be practically inexhaustible and from which they have made iron for centuries.

"My impression is that if they would put some of these ilurickasha men into the foundries of the country, making iron, instead of destroying their energy and making old and dissipated men of them at thirty, doing work as human horses, it would be a great advantage to the country.

"Another thing, they have no factory laws; these people work from twelve to fifteen hours a day. If they can do this in the little cottages and open fields and also employ their children, they will find when cooped up between the brick walls of the modern factories they are simply killing the goose that lays the golden egg. They had better export trade, only amounted to $78,000, only composite trade, only amounted to $78,000, only composite trade increased to eight hours. But at present a suggestion of this kind would be regarded as such an outrageous proposition that the structed to commit hart karl.

"They supply their entire home demand, buying no yarn in India, as formerly. Some of the finer wools they still buy in England. They supply the home demand for cotton cloth, and also send some to England.

"One thing they must have, as they produce the finer qualities of yarns, that is our cotton. Last year they bought $2,500,000 worth of American cotton. In order to secure the trade England has now with China to company the computation of the compulsion is only nominal, as no age is stipulated when the educating shall commence. They can not seleze the children and put them into school.

not seize the children and put them into school.

"To my mind, Japan can no longer be treated only from the artistic standpoint; its tea houses, its fascinating Geisha girls, its cherry blossoms, all those things that have been so exquisitely treated by travelers of artistic temperament, must give way and Japan will have to face the stern realities of an actual position among civilized nations.

an actual position among civilized nations.

It is matches today and umbrellas tomorrow. Ten years ago, they did not export any umbrellas. Suddenly our umbrella people in the East were hit, as with a sand-bag, with a deluge of umbrellas. They did not know where they came from. I looked it up and learned that Japan made over $2,000,000 worth of umbrellas. Some of them came to America, many went to China. They were sold at from $5 to 40 cents a dozen, $24 of their money or $12 of our money per dozen, for the very best silk umbrellas.

"Toothbrushes sold from $1.80 a gross, They are so cheap in Japan that I think eko, was perfectly justified in saying in a speech the other day, to the United States Chamber of Commerce of Japan 'they had better weavers and spinners in the newly-built factories of Japan than England had been able to produce in three generations.'

"This labor is not pauper labor, the in three generations."

"This labor is not pauper labor, the girls and women are not chafing at their condition, but they are fat, happy, devil-may-care and enjoying life.

"The question is, is it possible for this civilization to enjoy life on a similar basis? Possibly the Japanese are right and we are wrong, and we do not need all these things. Possibly we could get along without them, if we could get down to their level.

"However, if we are to keep up our large volume of business with them, they ought to buy from us. This is reciprocity. If they do not see it in their interest to do this, then they cannot complain if America takes such steps as are necessary to protect her own labor and industries. We want action which will open up additional markets in Japan and indues these people to purchase more of the flour from our farmers, the raw cotton of the South and the fruits of California.

"Osaka is one of the most wonderful cities I ever visited, with not less than 300 large chimnies, looking-like Clevelland. It is situated at the top of the English and American system, with a strong element of monarchy. The Emperor appoints his chief minister, Marperor appoints his chief minister, Marperor appoints his chief minister, Marperor appoints his chief minister.

face of affairs. the Emperor is not supposed to be connected with politics at all, but practically he is the dominating factor.

"The elective franchise is limited to about 600,000, out of 45,000,000. Marriage and divorce laws are very lax. Any man can divorce his wife by his simple sayso. Divorces are about 331-3 per cent. out of the total number of marriages.

"The formality of the Emperor's receptions is about the same as that of our Presidential receptions. All the men are required to wear the European evening dress. except the officers of the military and navy, who appear attired in their uniforms. The most expensive operation a Japanese goes through is to die. It costs about 87 cents for the funeral expenses, and the fee for the Buddhist priest.

"The position of the Japanese press is most lamentable. While the press is struggling for a better position, and the papers have increased enormously in circulation during the last ten years, it is still ranked with such occupations as restaurants, dealers in meats, horsefiesh and slaughter-house, Geisha girls and the Yoshiwara, which are regulated at police headquarters. Here in San Francisco, the journalists generally regulate police headquarters such in Japan police headquarters regulate the newspapers, and they not infrequently suspend publication of the paper for several days.

"You have referred to me communications from the Los Angeles Railway Company, the Depot Railway Company and the Main-street and Agricultural Park Railway Company, all bearing upon the question of the operation of street railways over Wolfskill avenue, between Fifth street and Third street. It is claimed by these various communications that two street railway companies, operated under different management, are operating now over this line. This is a question of fact for your honorable body to determine. Section 493 of the Civil Code permits two lines of street railway, operated under different management, to use the same street for a distance of not more than five blocks. If two lines are legitimately operated over the same tracks, under franchises granted by the city. It is beyond the power of the Council to grant a third franchise for the same portions of streets. The question, however, whether two different managements are so operating must be determined by your honorable body."

Ex-City Attorney McFarland appeared before the Council in behalf of the Traction Railway Company, and explained to the Council the status of affairs, on Wolfskill avenue, between Second and Fifth streets. After a desultory discussion of the matter by the Councilmen, action upon the same was deferred for one week, the matter being referred to the Board of Public Works in the meantine.

The people of the State of California upon the relation, information and com-plaint of A. P. Wiley vs. L. B. Doan, is the title of a suit filed yesterday

The complaint recites the organiza-tion of the Big Rock Creek Irrigation District, under the act of March 7, 1887; that on February 6, 1895, L. B. Doan was elected collector of said district; that on the 18th day of April, 1896, said Doan was duly removed from said office of collector by the board of directors of said district and the office was declared vacant, and L. R. Tilghman was, on May 5, 1896, duly appointed collector and subscribed and filed the necessary oath subscribed and filed the necessary oath of office and delivered to the board a good and sufficient bond. Doan refuses to surrender the office and books. A decree is asked ousting Doan and adjudging Tilghman entitled to the office, and that a fine of $5000 be imposed upon the defendant and that he be ordered to pay the costs.

FIVE YEARS IN FOLSOM.

"Detective" Coyne, the Dynamiter, Receives Severe Sentence.

Harry L. Coyne, convicted by a jury in Judge Smith's court on a charge of complicity in the Stimson dynamite outrage, received sentence in Department One yesterday.

A motion for a new trial was denied. A motion for a new trial was denied, and before pronouncing sentence Judge Smith gave Coyne, who claims to be but 19 years of age, a severe lecture upon the enormity of his offense and concluded his remarks by sentencing the young man to five years' imprisonment in Folsom.

FRASQUILLO ROBBERY.

McKinney Charges that He Was Re-

Francisco Frasquillo, charged with robbing Dennis McKinney of $20 and a watch and chain at San Gabriel, on the night of March 22, 1896, was on trial before Judge Smith and a jury yesterday. According to the testimony of McKinney, he was held up on the public highway and the crime is a serious one. The complainant further testified that he had been gambling during the day, and admitted that he had won $10 from some one. The defendant's attorney tried to call out an admission that the money had been won from one of the participants in the robbery, and that the effort was made simply to recover the ill-gotten gains. watch and chain at San Gabriel, on the ill-gotten gains.

McKinney does not claim any weapon was drawn, but declared that the demand was made in such a peremptory tone that he feared bodily harm should he resist, and, following out this presentment of great danger, threw up his hands and told Frasquillo to take his money and be quick about it, as he was in a hurry to go home.

The cause will be continued this morning. The defendant is a Mexican.

An Insolvency and Judgment Lead to Complications.

E. E. Keech, as assignee in the insolvency of John Beatty, Jr., and Robert Beatty, Joing business at Santa Ana under the firm name of Beatty Bros., has filed an action against the First National Bank of Santa Ana and M. M. Crookshank. The complaint recites that on May 18, 1895, the said firm was insolvent and permitted their property to remain under legal process for four-days; that on May 23, 1895, J. C. Nichols, under color of his office and by authority of a certain void execution, made a pretended and void sale to defendant, M. M. Crookshank. That the defendant bank procured the said void order, etc., and retained for its own use the sum of $2476.85, in full of its said void execution; that the value of said property on May 10, 1895, was $12,000, and judgment for this amount is said. of said property on May 10, 1895, $12,000, and judgment for this am

THE FEDERAL COURTS.

Charley Lee Kong Held for Deportation.

Upon complaint of Chinese Inspector John D. Putnam, Charley Lee Kong was brought before Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday, charged with being in this country unlawfully. Charley has doffed all such frivolties as pigtail and loose garments of blue cotton; and appears in American guise, with frock coat and cropped hair. He speaks fairly good English, and appears to have adapted himself to the ways of the country to quite an unusual degree.

Unfortunately for Charley, he has no certificate to show his right to remain on American soil, and still more unfortunately a pistol shot which he playfully fired at Detective Auble some five years ago, makes it impossible for him to get one. In accordance with the act of 1893. a Chinaman who has been convicted of a felony cannot obtain a certificate, as required by the act of 1892. When the first act was passed Charley was about half through with a two-year term at San Quentin for assault with a deadly weapon, so he could not comply with the new law before the act of 1893 had gone into effect, thereby debarring him from ever obtaining a certificate.

Charley is now a dealer in lottery tickets in Chinatown, having abandoned his former occupation of merchant for the more lucrative pursuit. He will probably be given a chance to display his business acumen in the flowery kingdom from this time forth. Upon complaint of Chinese Inspector Muscuplabe Company Has Su-perior Rights in San Bernardino County—Santa Barbara Court Re-versed in the Blood Foreclosure.

The Supreme Court has handed down The Supreme Court has handed down an opinion affirming the decision of the lower court in the suit of W. R. Wiggins against the Muscupiabe Land and Water Company. The plaintiff is the owner of a rectangular tract of 1000 acres of land lying near the entrance to the Cajon Pass, about seven miles northeast of the town of San Bernardino. The defendant company owns a larger tract of land adjoining on the south and west. Through both of these tracts flows a stream of water known as Devil Cafon Creek. Through the south and west. Through both of these tracts flows a stream of water known as Devil Cañon Creek. Through the decision of the lower court the plaintiff was enjoined from using any of this water upon his 1000-acre tract, excepting 245 acres in the mortherly portion. Wiggins was allowed "the full flow of the stream for eight days out of each forty days, beginning April 1 of each year, upon the said 1000 acres; the Muscuptabe Land and Water Company was allowed the full flow of the stream during the remainder of each period of forty days, provided that when there are no more than 100 miners' inches of water, measured under a four-inch pressure, flowing in said stream at the point where it enters the lands of the defendant company, the said company should be allowed to divert all the water of said stream, and to continue to so divert the same until there are no more than one hundred inches aforesaid flowing at said point."

The plaintiff appealed, and the court,

more than one hundred inches aforesaid flowing at said point."

The plaintiff appealed, and the court, sitting in bank, sustains the lower court and reviews the cause in a document of eleven typewritten pages. Incidentally, the superior rights to the use of water for domestic over irrigating uses is discussed. The fact that a large portion of appellant's 1000-acre tract is worthless without water is made to show against its rights to the use of water, to the deprivation of lands already occupied and moderately cultivated under ordinary conditions.

The decision is rendered by Justices
McFarland, Garoutte, Van Fleet, Temple and Henshaw.

SANTA BARBARA APPEAL.

SANTA BARBARA APPEAL. In the action of James A. Blood against La Serena Land and Water against La Serena Land and Water Company, a cause appealed from Santa Barbara county, the lower court has been reversed by Department Two of the Supreme Court. The suit grew out of the sale of a 350-acre ranch of James A. Blood for $105,000, and a purchasing organization afterward incorporated under the name of the La Serena Land and Water Company. The seller received $40,000 in cash, $12,500 in stock and a note and mortgage for $52,500. The and water company. The sener received $40,000 in cash, $12,500 in stock and a note and mortgage for $32,500. The note and mortgage were executed by James L. Barker, president, and James A. Blood, Jr., secretary. Blood, Jr., was one of the original subscribers and received some shares of stock and other shares were made over to him by Blood, Sr., representing the commission of $5000 which he was to receive for effecting the sale. The stockholders of the company knew that the purchase price of the land was to be $105,000, but the court finds that it was not so clear that they knew their associate was to receive $5000 for negotiating the sale.

was to receive $5000 for negotiating the sale.

Finally, the payment of the note secured by mortgage was not met and foreclosure proceedings were instituted. Judgment of foreclosure was entered by the lower court. The defendant company demurred to the acts of its officers, it being claimed that the only authority upon which the president and secretary acted was the resolution passed at a preliminary meeting of the stockholders.

In conclusion, the court says: "So far as this decision goes, it is but a determination that the findings of due execution of the note and, mortgage, and of ratification thereof, are not supported by the evidence and cannot stand. The judgment and order are reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial.

An Instance of Chivalry of Latter Days.

Indian Thieves Possessed of Assortments of Door Keys.

McCoy Cannot Be Moved—New Valu-ations of Railroad Property. Heathen Chinese Who Are Peculiar.

PHOENIX, June 6.—(Regular Corre-pondence.) An instance of latter-day spondence.) An instance of latter-day chivalry was seen here before the Probate Judge. J. Lambert is a hay-baling contractor whose married life has been unhappy. His wife has sought to have him committed to the asylum, evidently being tired of him. When he was brought before the Probate Judge it was as a candidate for the asylum. He had been heard to threaten his own life. In fact, a razor and a revolver had been taken from him. Asked the reason for it, he would say nothing further than that his troubles were domestic. He was asked to state to the court wherein the trouble existed, and especially if his wife had been unfaithful to him. Had he done so, that would have probably been the end of the matter. He refused to tell, and refused to place any stain on the woman's character. place any stain on the woman's char-acter. She testified that she believed he life and that of her children in ger. There was nothing to substan-lace this, for Lambert had never threatened them. He was committed to the asylum.

AN UNWILLING VERDICT.

The first of the cases against the Daggs brothers, known as the $50,000 case, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty for Messrs. W. A. and P. P. Daggs—The jury, is was apparent, were unwilling to acquit. The centiment against the Daggses by depositors in the defunct bank and for friends of depositors is very bitter. This was apparent in the spirit of the jury. On the grounds that the Territory had failed to make any case against them, the court instructed the jury to acquit. For them to perform that duty would have seemed a simple matter, that could be done without leaving their seats. Not so, They retired and were gone some time, when they returned for further instructions. The law was furnished by His Honor as requested, and then came a burning question from one juror—whether the instructions to acquit must be obeyed. There was no equivocation about the answer that they must be. Then the jury again retired, and after being out two hours brought in a verdict of not guilty. The same verdet is anticipated in the other cases against the Daggses.

the Pima Indians. Four of them were detected stealing fruit in the yard of Mrs. Evans, on West Monroe street. They were arrested and when searched each was found to have a whole outfit of door keys. There were big keys and little ones; brass keys and keys of steel; thin keys and fat ones. One bunch alone comprised twenty-five keys. One of them tried to throw away his outfit when the searching process was begun. The keys were confiscated and the Indians given a few days for fruit stemiling. Evidently a series of petty burglaries was projected by the redskins.

NEW RAILROAD VALUATIONS.
The Teritorial Board of Equalization has under consideration the assessing of railroads exempted by acts of the Territorial Legislature. This means $1,385,000 increased valuation, and taxes to the amount of $34,625. The board hopes to finish all business this evening. The latest change in valuations is the Southern Pacific to $6496 per mile. The Arisona and Southeastern was raised from $4900 to $5300 per mile. The lower figure of last year was due to the then low prices of copper. The road is the property of the Copper Queen Company of Bisbee, and dependent almost solely on the mining business of the concern at Bisbee for traffic.

TOLL-GATES ON CENTER STREET.
The handsomest driveway in Arizona is the avenue usually termed Center street, running northward from this city nine miles. It is kept in good repair, well sprinkled, and is wide. It is therefore the favorite drive of the city. Of late the Central-avenue Driving Association, who control this avenue, have been endeavoring to raise a lacking $400 to pay for sprinkling. The $400 has not been properly forthcoming. They have now set about in a summary method. Toll-gates will be placed on the avenue, and with the revenue so derived the avenue may be kept up. The road being a private thoroughfare, this is permissible.

This has been considered humiliating, and in connection with doubt about the reappointment of Principal Brouse and Miss Baker was the occasion of a massmeeting of citizens Thursday night. The principal was generally upheld, The outcome was a resolution numerously signed, reading: "Resolved, that it is the opinion of the citizens of Prescott and of the patrons of the public schools thereof in mass-meeting assembled, that Prof. Brouse and Miss Baker be reëmployed for the ensuing school year in the positions which they have respectively filled for the year just past in connection with the public schools of Prescott, unless they have been discharged therefrom owing to faithlessness in the discharge of their duties or for incompetency; and, that a copy of this resolution signed by the chairman and secretary of this meeting be presented to each of the trustees of said public schools of Prescott, and they be requested to act thereon within a reasonable time.

Correspondence.) The famous Jack Gree case, including in its windings a murder and the questionable dispo-sition of the property of the deceased, the failure to discover the body for months, and when subsequently found the mislaying of the skull of the decased, has been on trial here. The question now up is the disposition of the property of the decased. For years the widow has been out at service, supporting herself and three children, and this, notwithstanding Green was well-to-do. having among other possessions 160 acres of valley land. The establishment of the death of Green was first required. To do this Attorney Jones made a dramatic scene in the courtroom. On the banks of the Little Colorado dead cattle fairly line the banks. The range stock are so thin and weak that their hind parts wobble from side to side as they walk. They reach the water and drink almost to the bursting point. So heavy is the load of water that their weak limbs cannot carry it. They sink down and die, generally in the mud. Others of the stock preferring water to grass stay near the stream where there is no grass, and starve to death. The poor creatures have an awful dilemma before them—to perish of thirst or starve.

I call it indigestion. I have had great pain in my chest for many years, and I used to have great difficulty in breathing at times and feel and fee times and feel as if something had stuck in my throat, especially after eating, and I always had to be careful what I eat. I dared not eat pastry or hot rolls, and at and it only relieved me for a day or so. I tried Pepsin and other patent medicine, and did not find much benefit until the man at the drug store where I deal asked me to try Ripans Tabules. I did, and I tell you I felt more benefit from one box of Ripans Tabules than all the other stuff I had been taking. I had about three or four boxes and I am cured. I don't have the pain in my chest, my bowels are more regular and I can eat any kind of food that is put before me. Ripans Tabules have made a good cure for me, and I tell you I tell all my friends to try them.

GOLD EXPORTS. The editor of Bradstreet's ventures the opinion that Germany is at the bottom of the present gold movement and that the depletion of the United States treasury of the yellow metal is "obviously the carrying out of a well-considered banking plan on the part of the imperial institution." Speaking of last week's gold shipments,

Speaking of last week's gold shipments. Bradstreet's says:

"In this connection some light has been thrown upon the factors which enable foreign bankers to ship gold as a means of supplying the market with bills of exchange. This week's shipments, like those which preceded them, have gone to Germany, and are the result, it would seem, of conditions existing in the German money market through which advantage is taken of our system of currency management, the process being in no wise different from what has been going on for several years past, and which has been at the bottom of the continued depletion of the treasury gold reserve, and the consequent necessity of replenishing it by means of bond issues. It seems that the financial operations of the Russian government, although imperfectly understood, have very much to do with the situation in Germany; calls upon the markets of the latter country from Russia have resulted in high rates of interest at Berlin and Frankfort. The average rate for money at those cities in recent years has rarely exceeded 2 percent. At present, however 2% @3 percent are quoted, this condition being the result of a heavy contraction in the outstanding circulation of the Imperial Bank of Germany, the step in question having been obviously taken for the purpose of enforcing higher rates and protecting itself against demand for specie from Russia. The decrease in the German bank circulation is in the neighborhood of $18,000,000, the whole of which, it is to be presumed, came directly or indirectly from this country. During the earlier part of the year, indeed, the German gold reserve suffered a decrease of about $15,000,000, and the process now going on at the expense of the United States treasury reserve is obviously the carrying out of a well-considered banking plan on the part of the imperial institution, while the offering of a small premium or allowance enables the transactions to continue, though exchange rates here are still slightly below the figure which would justify gold exports Bradstreet's says:

CALIFORNIA FRUIT IN THE ENGLISH MARKET. A. F., Spawn, lately arrived from London with a party of English colonists for Southern California, thinks there would be a good market in England for California fruit, if rightly handled. One thing is necessary, though, to make California fruit sales across the water successful, that is more careful packing than has hitherto been practiced.

Mr. Spawn was in London last year when consignments of California fruit arrived and personally inspected its condition and watched the sales. He says one reason why low prices were realized in many instances was because the fruit was not packed properly. One great difficulty to be overcome in the ordinary process of wrapping and packing fruit is to prevent it from chafing at the points of contact. When the boxes are opened upon arriving at their destination and the upper layers exposed to view, buyers are quick to notice any moisture on the wrappers indicating that the fruit is chafed and liable to early decay. One or two wet wrappers at the top of a box, knock several shillings off the price of the contents of the box at once as purchasers surmise it to be likely that the fruit is damaged all the way that the fruit is damaged all the way through.

How to prevent fruit from chafing is a problem which Mr. Spawn thinks is easily solved. He would do it by packing the fruit in peat, which possesses the qualities of lightness, softness, porosity and is withal a non-conductor of heat. Peat is put to much the same use in Ireland now as felt, in the manufacture of cloth, hats, etc., and the light fluffy stuff is pressed into bales and shipped to London and other cities to be used as bedding for horses. Mr. Spawn is thoroughly convinced that it is just the sort of stuff needed to pack fruit in for transportation long distances. Its softness will prevent the fruit from being bruised by being shaken up; its lightness will not increase the freight by adding weight to the package; it will absorb all the juices that may escape from the fruit. to the package; it will absorb all the Julces that may escape from the fruit, should chafing or bruises occur, and being almost a perfect non-conductor of heat it will practically do away with refrigeration. Mr. Spawn says fruit shipped in cold storage decays very quickly when taken out and exposed in market places, and it is therefore desirable to ship without refrigeration as much as possible.

fruit shipped in cold storage decays very quickly when taken out and exposed in market places, and it is therefore desirable to ship without refrigeration as much as possible.

Mr. Spawn has left a sack of Irish peat at the Chamber of Commerce to be experimented with. It could be imported very cheaply in large quantities via Cape Horn, if found to be a desirable packing for fruit. It would not be necessary to send abroad for it, though, as the peat beds of Orange county could no doubt furnish any quantity of the stuff.

There is always a good demand at fancy prices for fresh California fruit in London, says Mr. Spawn, but it must be a prime article, neatly packed, and in first-class condition upon arrival. Some classes of fruit, such as green, soggy clingstone peaches, would better not be sent, as they bring poor prices, and damage the reputation of California products. Choice Bartlett pears, plums and peaches sell well, and command a high-class custom.

Mr. Spawn also thinks navel oragnes could be marketed profitably in the London market. He saw some on sale in Piccadilly last winter that sold at fabulous prices, and they were not of first-class quality either, and upon inquiry he found that they were reshipped from New York. Large-sized navel oranges filled with fuice get flattened and pressed out of share by their own weight when packed in the ordinary manner, and transported a long distance. It is Mr. Spawn's opinion that peat could be advantageously used in packing oranges also. He thinks the carrying up and keeping qualities of fruit are greatly improved by packing in peat. As an example of peat. as a preserver, he says on December 25 last he picked some oranges on the Santa Rosa ranch, Riverside county. He wrapped these in a newspaper and put them in his trunk where they remained until he reached London in February. He then removed them from his trunk and inhedded them in a box of peat. When he left London, April 18, those oranges were still in a good state of preservation.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS. A BOGUS CENSUS-TAKER. Some of the numerous canvassers and agents who infest the city and annoy housewives and business men with their importunities resort to very questionable methods to bring their business to the portunities resort to very questionable methods to bring their business to the attention of their would-be victims. But about the meanest person who has yet gone about bothering the people is the man who represents himself as a duly authorized agent sent out to take a census of the dead. His method is to go from house to house inquiring if any deaths have occurred in the family: if so, how many, the names and ages of the deceased, dates of birth and death, cause of deats, etc. The housewife thus catechised usually takes pains to furnish the information asked for, thinking the fellow is a bona fide census officer. But if she is smart she is undeceived when the alleged mortuary statistician, after making a note of the data furnished, says: "We are getting out a memorfal picture, a sample of which I have here. Of course you don't have to take it, but you will find if a very nice remembrance of your departed ones." A good time to unloose the buildog is after the fellow has thus made known his real business, but it would be well to have a strong man handy to kick him off the premises before he gets so far. A number of people in the residence districts have been annoyed by this heartless imposter recently. Citizens are warned to look out for him.

CANNERY NEEDED AT WHITTIER. Harvesting the blackberry crop has begun at the Whittier State School. The institution has five acres devoted to this useful small fruit. Last year the plants matured in time for only one crop and 35,000 boxes were picked. This year there will be two or three crops and the yield will be much larger. The smaller boys of the school are utilized in picking them. They are detailed to the work in companies of 100 each. The little fellows become very expert in gathering the luscious berries and seem to like it. The institution is in need of a canning plant. If provided with one a great deal of fruit could be put up for use by the other State institutions and a large saving to the State be thus effected. a large saving to the State be thus ef-

LOS ANGELES, June 8, 1896.

Eggs are firm at 12@13 cents. Eastern are apparently finding more favor than the California product at present. Peaches and apricots are firmer, also green peas. Tomatoes now sell at 1.35@1.40. Onlons are weaker. Butter is doing better.

(The following quotations are for average grades of the products mentioned. For an extra choice article a somewhat better price than the highest quoted can usually be obtained, while for a product of decidedly inferior quality the seller will probably have to accept less than the lowest published question.)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Speculation today veloped heaviness, which was largely fluenced by evidence of liquidation in so of the low-priced shares. The news of tod having a general bearing lacked importan saide from the treasury call on the depotory banks for the bajance of their holding of government maney, amounting to about! of the low-priced shares. The news of today having a general bearing lacked importance aside from the treasury call on the depository banks for the balance of their holdings of government money, amounting to about $4,500,000. The withdrawal of so large an amount following the recent call for a similar sum is not expected to cause any special change in the money market, a fact which is an extremely important reflection upon the apathy of speculation in Wall street. The Industrials covered a wide range and in that group Sugar was the most active. The street had been milked the previous week and the day was undecided whether to bank upon the declaration of an extra dividend by the directors or not. It is well-known that the company has large cash resources, but the speculative ability of its managers was also borne in mind. The recent apparent heavy purchases by insiders and the advance in the stock to 1.25 gave some the justification for the assumption of an extra dividend for the assumption of only the regular amounts of 1% and 3 per cent., respectively, on the preferred and common stocks and the report that an extra payment had not been considered, induced general selling by the traders, under which the price receded 1½ per cent. Liquidation caused material general concessions. The pressure against the market abated for awhile in the afternoon and a moderate inquiry resulted in some rallies. The closing was weak with important fractions in the leading shares. Bonds were dull with a sagging tendency. The losses are mainly fractional. Material gains occurred in a few of the less prominent issues. Sales were $753,000. Government bonds sales were $753,000. Government bonds and fractions in the leading shares. London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says the stock markets were generally easier in view of the general sattlement which commences Wednesday. Mines, however, the settlement in which will begin tomorrow, were exceptionally good, especially Kaffirs, on the belief that Paris may take up a good many shares at the settlement. Americans were duil from start to finish on sales by worn-out buils, the depressing factor being the currency outlook in the United States. The Milwaukee Electric bonds, brought out by the Morgans, have been oversubstribed.

the decrease was only 193,000 bushels, where 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels had been expected and where there was 250,000 bushels a yoar ago, there was a quick drop of nearly 21/20 from the top early. Corn was quiet and but little affected by the wildness of wheat. The feature was the weather and large local receipts, which created an easy feeling which prevailed to the close. Oats were fairly active and prices ruled slightly lower in sympathy with corn. Provisions were neglected. The opening prices were a shade easier and the closing weakness of wheat caused a still further decline.

THE CYCLONE IN CUBA.

(Seattle, Wash., Post-Intelligencer:)
Now is the time for American manufacturers to ship flags to Spain. The Spaniards appear to be anxious to burn a few more of them.
(Seattle, Wash., Post-Intelligencer:)
From the way Americans are being apprehended in Cuba it would seem that Weyler was determined that he will force the United States to recognize the Cubans.

revolution in their own government that makes the Cuban situation critical. (San Francisco Bulletin:) Stopping the exportation of tobacco from Cuba is not going to cut any figure with the American trade in Havana cigars. American Havana cigars are not made that way.

(Butte, Mont., Miner:)With Cuban insurgents on one side and yellow fever on the other, the Spanish soldiers who have been forced to the island to do Spain's villainous work may well pray for deliverance or an end of war.

(Tacoma, Wash., Ledger:) No, men and brethren, you needn't be in a hurry to offer your services to Uncle Sam in case of a war between the United States and Spain over the Competitor affair. There isn't going to be any war over that.

(San Francisco Bulletin:) The Cuban

(San Francisco Bulletin:) The Cuban rebels are advancing upon Havana. Probably taking Weyler at his word in giving them two weeks to come inportant stipulation that they were to come in without their guns. You cannot garrote an armed man, particularly one who insists upon shooting.

(San Francisco Bulletin:) Spain's idea that the South would support her in the event of a war over Cuba arose in all probability from a misconception of the meaning of the term "solid South." The South mever was solid in that way, and it is not solid now in any way. Senator Tillman has been stirring up things down there with his pitchfork.

(Dalles, Or., Chronicle:) Nearly a

up things down there with his pitchfork.

(Dalles, Or., Chronicle:) Nearly a month has elapsed since Congress did Justice to Cuba, but still Cleveland makes no sign. This man, who is more foreign than American, has no sympathy for people who are fighting for independence and right. The Cubans, however, are still victorious and the little band is standing off the hordes of Spain with wonderful skill.

(Tacoma, Wash. News) It may be observed that with all Spain's blow and bluster and anxious desire for a war with the United States an unmistakable notification from the Americans government that the execution of the Americans captured in the schooner Competitor without a fair trial would mean war, speedily cooled the fire-eating arder of the Spanish authorities. The change in the programme spolled Gen. Weyler's appetite for breakfast but saved the appetite of the Americans.

(Tacoma, Wash., Ledger:) A Havana bellicose newspaper urges Spain to declare war against the United States and says that at the sound of the first yun the southern States would withdraw from the union and Mexico would invade this country to recover its lost territory in the West. Evidently the Spanish Dons are in extremis, and certainly the Havana publication is uttering the sheerest nonsense, or, in less polite language, it is talking through its editorial hat.

(San Francisco Bulletin:) The gentle and lambilike Weyler, incidentally to its editorial hat:

(San Francisco Builetin:) The gentle and lamblike Weyler, incidentally to his sport of shooting puling babes in the arms of their mothers, has devised a new form of amusement in the way of applying thumbscrews with steel gaffs to American citizens who fall into his hands. The gentle and lamblike Weyler is a survival of the dark ages, possible in. no. country, but Spain, and should not be permitted to be possible even in Spain. Cannot Mr. Olney reach out to meet this case with his strong foreign policy?

ANTONIA SACCOHCIA PALES BE

the Brutal Butchery of Fisher-man Pete at Newport Beach. Used a Gun-Silkwood Entered

SANTA ANA, June 8.—(Regular Cor-respondence.) The preliminary, exami-nation of Antonia Saccohela, charged with the murder of Pete Givan, otherwith the murder of Pete Givan, otherwise known as Pete Julian, at Newport Beach last May the 23d, was begun today in the City Hall before Justice of the Peace George E. Freeman. The hall was crowded with spectators upon the opening of court, for the murder was one of the most fiendishly brutal that was ever committed in the valley. The murdered man, as readers of The Times will remember, was litterally backed to pieces with a haicher of The Times will remember, was literally backed to pieces with a hatchet and then sliced up with a razor. The populace has been thoroughly aroused over the crime and today about the entire population of Newport Beach were present to hear the testimony that

José Serey was the first witness called. He testified that he knew Pe-Givan, otherwise known as "Fisherman Pete" or "Peter Julian." Last saw him at his house at Newport Beach about 8 or 9 o'clock. Last saw

Last saw him at his house at Newport Beach about 8 or 9 o'clock. Last saw him alive with me at my house in the night time. Did not see him then until about 8 or 9 the next morning. I do not remember the instance of the killing of Givan at Newport Beach. I had too much wine in my head at that time, I had a drink of wine from a bottle in Givan's little house the morning'he was found murdered.

José Serey, Jr., was next called. He said his business was working at hard labor. He remembered the killing of Givan Last saw him alive at his house two weeks ago Friday night; me and my father were there. He came about 8 o'clock p.m.; stald until about 11 p.m.; don't know who else came during the evening. I went to bed about 9 o'clock as I was sick; I saw the defendant that evening early at his house. I saw him again about 11 o'clock when he and Pete left my house. I did not see him when he came in but I saw him go away. Saw Pete when he left and heard him say good-night to everybordy. He went off to the right toward Henry Harmon's house. Stood there about one or one and one-half minutes; at same time I got up and went to my window I saw Antonia Saccohcia going te left side of house, He made one step and stopped to look around. It was moonlight and I could see well. Pete Julian went a short distance and stood for a while, then went on toward-his house. Antonia followed him to his little house. At same time I called my sister to come and look at Saccohcia, He was then back of Dick McGarvin's bruse. It looked as if he was watching for something. Saccohcia lives west about fifty yards from my house. Pete's house is about three hundred yards south of my house. Saccohcia lives west about fifty yards from my house. Pete's house is about three hundred yards south of my house. He was laying on the floor covered with blood. He was dead. Mr. Sherman and others were with me.

On cross-examination he testified that the man's shadow was on the north side of the house; that he watched Saccohcia that night until Pete was out of sight. Saccohcia was about fifty-five yards from me. Saw him last that night about one hundred yards from Pete Julian's house. He was then about fifty-five yards from me. Know it was Saccohcia because I know him. He was on the west side of Dick McGarvin's house in the plain moonlight. I was about thirty or forty feet from my house when I saw the defendant standing in the shadow of Harmon's house. Then I went on into my house. Saccohcia was walking away. He house. Then I went on into my house. Saccohcia was walking away. He would take a step and then would look back toward my house.

Jessie Serey was the next witness. She knew Mr. Givan. Last saw him Friday night at Il o'clock sharp at my house. Antonia and Pete and papa were there. I came in just before 10 p.m. Pete and papa were there. Antonia came after that, They stayed from 10 to Il o'clock. Then they went out; they both left together. I saw Antonia after he left my house. I saw Antonia after he left my house. I saw Antonia after he left my house. I saw him standing with pipe in his mouth. This was just short time after they left. My brother called me to look at him. I have known Givan only a short time. I knew him as Pete Julian. I have known Antonia about the same length of time. Antone just came in to my house. On Friday evening. Pete was facing the bay. Next saw Peter Saturday morning at his home. He was dead.

On cross-examination she said Antone was going in the direction of Pete's house when she saw him. I recognized Antone. I am sure it was Antone. The moon was shining. Did not see Pete them; not until next morning. I saw Antone, Pete and papa in the kitchen together that night. Did not see Pete and Antone leave, but I heard them. When my brother called me to come to the door I was getting ready for bed. Then Antone was right by the side of a house.

Coroner Clark said that he held an inquest over the remains of Pete Julian. He here related what he found upon his arrival at the beach and the manner in which the inquest was held,
after which he told of the nature of the wounds inflicted. He told of the manner in which the inquest was held,
after which he told of the nature of the wounds had been inflicted by an instrument something like a hatchet, and that seven gashes were made one way and five the reverse way; that the gsahes around the neck and throat had evidently been made with some instrument like a razor; that the fingers were silt and split and one or more were presumably chopped off with a heavy instrument. He thought death must have been caused by the gashes in the head, but if they had not been inflicted he judged that death would have resulted in twenty minutes to half an hour from hemorrhage from the knife wounds on the neck. The hatchet found at the head of the bed.

bloody clothing, and a hatchet. The same were then produced in court. The shirt with bloodstains found in the corner of the room was exhibited. The Sheriff stated that the hatchet and shirt had been in his possession a part of the time. The shirt had been given over to Dr. Custer of Los Angeles a portion of the time; he found a razor blade laying on a shelf, and it was delivered to me by A. found a razor blade laying on a sneu, and it was delivered to me by A. Nigs: I saw the defendant that day at Newport Beach; saw him standing in the door of his own house; he said he knew nothing about the murder; I had a talk with him; offered to shake hands with him, but he refused, keeping his hands in his pockets: I took him in the house and searched him; made him take off his clothes; his vest was wet; he said he had washed it two or three days before; I asked him how blood came on his drawers and he said he got it in the water closet; said his hat was wet because he had washed it several days before. His overalls were wet all over, quite wet, and he said he got them wet about a week ago; he said the spots on them were not bliod spots but paint; the bandage I found in his trunk; he said blood was on it because he had it on his sore leg several days before. The bandage was wet. I asked him if he had a razor and he said yee. I asked him for the key to his trunk in which he said his razor was, and he said he had lost the razor. The blood spots on his suspender, he said, were not blood. His shoes, the ones he had on, were wet; he said there was no blood on them but afterward said it might be fish blood. I found a wet sack that had evidently been used as a rug. Found pail of water; water was of rather pink color. Had conversation with him after that time in the County Jail. At that time I asked him if he had ever told any one that he would kill, do up or fix Pete, and he said he had not; said he had not asked Jessie Serey to marry him, but that he had asked her father for the girl; when asked if he knew who murdered Pete Julian he became quite excited and it was difficult to understand him.

A. Nigg was put on the esand. He testified that he was at Fisherman excited and it was difficult to understand him.

A. Nigg was put on the stand. He testified that he was at Fisherman Pete's cabin on the morning of the murder; that he found the razor blade exhibited in court and that he picked it up near the dead man's head. Mr. Shermer, Mr. Serey, Jr., and Jo Enos were with him at the time. He also identified the hatchet as the same as was found hanging up on the wall at the head of Pete's bed.

Frank Morelli testified that the razor looked very much like the one that was in Mr. Saccohcia's possession. Saw him have such a razor about a week before the murder. He gave the trade-mark on the razor. Saccohcia told him he got it from a man by the name of Harry. He saw this man Harry give it to him. It had a black handle on it. That bandage was given to him by Antonia Saccohcia and the week before Pete was murdered Saccohcia got the bandage.

William Shermer of Newport testifore Pete was murdered Saccohela got the bandage.

William Shermer of Newport testified that he had been at Newport ever since the wharf was built. He was there during the month of May. He was present during a conversation between the Sheriff and Antonio at Antonio's house. The Sheriff asked Antonio is he had a razor and he said yes and when asked for it he said he had no razor; that he had lost it about a week ago, but that he had the shield. He then opened the trunk in the room and produced it. When asked if he had not shaved since that time he said yes, about four days ago; that he had used a razer which he had bos, rowed from Chrispino. Mr. Shermer testified in regard to the examination of the defendant at his home the morning of the murder; he testified that the vest on both sides on the inside was wet. His evidence relative to bloodstains, etc. on clothes was similar to that of Sheriff Emmett Franklin was Deputy Sheriff Emmett Franklin was sworn and testified. He saw the body of the deceased about 11 o'clock He knew the defendant about two years at the beach; saw him the afternoon before the murder. He was shown the bloody shirt and stated that he saw the shirt on the body of Antonio Saccoh-Mr. Saccohcia, the defendant, was wearing the shirt. On the afternoon before the murder. Saccohcia, the defendant, was wearing the shirt. On the afternoon before the murder Saccohcia was on the wharf and appeared very uneasy. The witness testified as to having the defendant in charge while Sheriff Nichols was looking up evidence. The defendant wanted me to go away. Antonio shut the doors and locked the front one.

John Enos Ruddick testified that he had been a resident of Newport for four years. He knew the defendant; talked with him about his razor on Friday when I met the defendant on the wharf. He said Jo, you've had a shave already; he then told me that he had a fine razor down at his house; that conversation was the day before the murder; morning of the murder the defendant came with several of us to Pete's cabin, just after we heard of the murder. He came within about sixteen feet of the cabin and stopped; when the body of Pete was being drawn toward the door, I turned to the defendant and he was turning on his heel to go away. He went on away. He appeared very much excited.

Thomas McColloch said that he lived at Newport. He was there on Friday. He knew the defendant Defendant told him on Friday that if a couple of menpassing by with beard on their faces would come in he would give them a good shave as he had a splendid razor.

Louis Canesa, or Christine, was sworn and testified through an interpreter as follows: "I live at Newport Beach; am a fisherman; I have known the defendant and for ten or eleven years; about eight or nine months at Newport; Antonio Saccoholo never shaved with my razor."

J. G. Benson testified that he is a laborer on the wharf at Newport; heroid saw, the defendant; also the deceased. On one occa the prosecution will hastily draw its case to a close.

Out near the Southern Pacific depot last night there occurred a Spanish wedding, which furnished unalloyed enjoyment for a large number of guests, and, at the same time, made night USED A GUN. enjoyment for a large number of guests, and, at the same time, made night wretched for those unfortunate enough to live within gunshot of the scene of festivities. The usual dance followed the wedding ceremonies, and then came the shooting affray, which, from the Mexican standpoint is so essential to a proper wind-up of such celebrations. The air was full of bullets for a while, but when the smoke cleared away no dead Mexicans were found, and but few living once remained aside from the three men handling the guns. It is said the men who did the shooting were from Anahelm, and that they struck out for home immediately after the row. At any rate no arrests have been made, and no complaint has been made to the officers.

TO RACE AT NAPA. P. W. Mr. Hodges says that the horse can hardly be expected to show up in the best of shape by that date, on account of the limited time he will have for training him, but he is nevertheless confident that Silkwood can easily step up with the other horses entered, for they, too, are only partially conditioned. The string of horses which Mr. Hodges will take out this year comprises some of the best steppers in this section, and unless judges of horsefiesh are greatly mistaken, he will capture some good purses during of horseflesh are greatly mistaken, he will capture some good purses during the coming campaign.

SANTA MONICA, June 8.—(Regular Correspondence.) The grading of Railroad avenue from Seventh street to the ocean has been completed and has been accepted by the Street Superintendent. The contractor was J. M. Morris and the contract price was $7180. Easterly a short distance from Ocean avenue there was a twenty-foot fill. It is one of the largest pieces of grading work ever undertaken by the city and its completion forms a very important link of communication between points in town on opposite sides of it. The street was previously nearly impassable.

UNDERTAKERS COMPLAIN Complaint is heard among the local undertakers in reference to the care of remains of members of the Soldiers' Home accidentally killed away from the home grounds. There have been several such cases in which the services of a local undertaker have been requested. In some of the-cases the bodies have been terribly mutilated, as for instance by being run over by trains. In such instances the undertaker has gathered the remains as well as could be and cared for them until the Coroner could hold the necessary inquest. In some cases, it is alleged, the receiving caskets used have been virtually rulned.
Yet for all this trouble the undertaker gets not a cent. The county makes no provision for the burial of Soldiers' Home members and, under the strict rules, the officials of the home are powerless to use any funds to recompense erless to use any funds to recomp erless to use any funds to recompense the undertakers.

Under the State law the sum of $50 may be taken from the county funds for the burial of an ex-Union soldier under certain conditions, but this law does not apply to members of soldiers' homes.

The feeling is expressed among the undertakers that it is unjust to call them up in the middle of the night, as is sometimes done, and ask them to not only give their services, but to also be at an expense, when there is no prospect of getting anything for what they do.

NEW UNIFORMS.

NEW UNIFORMS.

Police Officers Forsyth and Lee have commenced duty in their new uniforms, which are practically identical with the uniform adopted for the Los Angeles police department. The new force will probably be able to accomplish little in the way of detective work, but the appearance of the uniformed officers on the beach and about town, especially on Sundays, will probably serve effectually as a warning to would-be evil-doers.

The large rewarks offered for Dunham, either dead or alive, make his beautiful and the secretary valuable human frame, and if willed detectives by any possible chance have bagged their game on the train to Tia Juana they will doubtless chance have bagged their game on the train to Tia Juana they will doubtless take good care to keep Mr. Dunham safely until the time for submitting him to the hands of the authorities arrives. The man arrested is said to tally with Dunham's description in many respects and on this ground his arrest was made. Up to this morning Chief of Police Brenning said that he had not heard of the arrest, but eye-witnesses of the affair state that three or more detectives had a hand in the affair. These detectives were strangers to the observers. Dunham formerly lived in this county and his father had a ranch here. The murderer is believed to be well acquainted with the country hereabouts.

McLaren was lying in bed, to which place he had evidently found his way just after the shooting. He had on trousers, suspenders and undershirt, which latter was so saturated with blood it had to be cut apart to get it off from his body. The shot had been from a 28-caliber revolver, and had entered just above the left nipple emerging just below the left shoulder-blade.

The wounded man was in great agony and was quieted with hypodermic injections. He said that while his wife was away from home he started to clean the pistol. One of the cartridges, he said, seemed to be fast in it, and he attempted to loosen the cartridge with a knife. Some slip of the knife, he thought, must have caused the cartridge to explode, and fire the shot through his body.

McLaren was a member of the Foresters of America and the Knights of the Maccabees. Up to about a year ago he was during most of the time for nearly four years agent for the San Pedro branch of the Coast Seaman's Union of the Pacific. He once spent about a year in the East as an organizer of the Seaman's Union of the Atlantic. He is a native of New Brunswick and was admitted to citizenship of the United States in Baltimore, Md. in 1880. He is 40 years of age. He was one of the unsuccessful candidates for City Marshal at the late city election.

A few hours after the shooting McLaren asked to have George H. Peck, Jr., a notary public, visit him. Mr.
Peck did as requested, and the wounded man made a statement intended to close up his business affairs in the event of his death.

The chances for his recovery are considered slight.

SANT BARBARA. June 8 .- (Regula rrespondence.) President Miller of Electric Company returned from Los Angeles Saturday evening, where he had been to close a contract for the engine and boilers for the power-house. It is rumored today that an extension of considerable importance beyond original plans is now being contention. templated. The idea is to extend the road to the Hope ranch, the opening for road to the hope ranch, the opening for settlement of which will require about five miles of electric road. The Hope ranch is acknowledged by everyone to be the most desirable residence portion of all Santa Barbara Valley, and one of the first essentials is an electric road.

POMONA, June 8.—(Regular Corre-pondence.) The question of a humane society in Pomona has been more or less agitated for some time, especially for the past three months. It seems for the past three months. It seems that, under the existing law, only one organization of the kind can be formed within the county; but the prevailing opinion is that what might be termed an auxiliary can organize under certain conditions, and through it all the benefits of such a society can be enjoyed. About sixty citizens have been induced to join the auxiliary, with the promise of an officer appointed by the society now working in Los Angeles.

MORE EVIDENCE OF HIS ALLEGED CROOKED TRANSACTIONS.

Reckless Boldness of the Manipu-lator of Bogus Mortgages-What the Prisoner in Jali Says About

A careful investigation made yes-terday of the operations of that daring manipulator of forged real estate doc-uments, James R. Veach, indicates that they will far exceed even the most liberal estimate yet made. From yes-terday's discoveries it is thought that Veach's alleged peculations will amount Veach's alleged peculations win amount to $15,000.

It is also alleged that the mortgage purporting to have been executed by R. W. Bryan and wife of Pasadena in favor of Veach, was forged. The alleged mortgage was made on property at the corner of Mountain street and Wilson avenue, in Pasadena, and the consideration was $5500. The instrument was filed for record February 18, 1896.

consideration was $5500. The instrument was filed for record February 18, 1896.

O. A. Vickery, a real estate dealer on Broadway, in this city, said yesterday that Bryan was a wealthy man, and would not execute any kind of a mortgage. Vickery is certain that Bryan never executed a mortgage.

This instrument was assigned to Clark A. Shaw of this city February 26, 1896, as was related in The Times yesterday. Shaw, believing the mortgage genuine, gave Veach $2000 for it. April 7, 1896. Shaw reassigned the mortgage to Veach, after receiving the $2000 he had paid Veach for it. On the same day Veach assigned the mortgage to Veach, after receiving the $2000 he had paid Veach for it. On the same day Veach assigned the mortgage to Josiah Russell, trustee, for $200. On May 28 of the same year the records at the County Recorder's office show that the mortgage was assigned from Russell to Veach. Notary Public Cribb's record shows that the instrument was signed and acknowledged by Veach, so that the instrument was signed and acknowledged by Veach, so that the instrument was son this transaction that the complaint was sworn out against Veach by Russell. As the Bryan mortgage is said to be a forgery, Russell can swear out another complaint against Veach for selling him a forged mortgage.

Two more alleged forged releases came to light yesterday on the lots in the Strang & Burnham subdivision, which apparently leaves those lots, Nos. 6, 7 and 8, with the following incumbrances: Blanche B. Burnham, with a first mortgage of $2000; Frank Burnham with a second mortgage of $2000, and the Union Savings Bank of Pasadena, with a third mortgage of $2000, and the Union Savings Bank of Pasadena, with a fourth mortgage of $2000, and the Union Savings Bank of Pasadena, with a fourth mortgage of $2000, and the Union Savings Bank of Pasadena, with a fourth mortgage of $2000.

One of the alleged fraudulent re leases, purporting to have been executed by Frank Burnham on May 18, 1895, is recorded as having been acknowledged by Frank Burnham before Carrie J. Adams, a Los Angeles notary, on September 19, 1895, but reference to her notarial register shows that on that date Frank Burnham did not acknowledge the execution of any instrument before her, but that J. R. Veach did acknowledge a release of a mortgage bearing the same date of the $2000 mortgage given by, Veach to Burnham. Veach in this case evidently erased his own name from the instrument and from the acknowledgment and inserted the name of Frank Burnham, after leaving the notary's office, and then had the fraudulent release recorded, thereby releasing of record his own mortgage to Burnham. This forged release was recorded September 11, 1895, six days before the $2000 mortgage to John Adams was recorded.

The other release purported to have been executed by the Union Savings Bank of Pasadena.

One cannot conceive of anything more daring than the forgery of these releases, when it is considered that a daily transcript of all transactions in the Recorder's office is published and circulated generally throughout the country up to the hour of his arrest; in fact, it is said, he was arranging to carry out at least three new transactions based upon an unincumbered title which had Bpparently been made clear by forgeries. The forgeries, with the exception of the Bryan mortgage which was assigned to Josiah Russell, have a striking similarity.

Usually, forgers content themselves with forging the name in the instruleases, purporting to have been exe-cuted by Frank Burnham on May 18, are lated in these columns yesterday, said last night that Veach had obtained $1400 from him, which has not been mentioned before.

"This money," said Williams to a Times reporter, "was obtained on the strength of a forged mortgage for $2700 on property in Putnam county, Ill. Veach assigned this mortgage to me as collateral. I am inclined to think that the certificate of title and fire insurance policy were forged as well as the mortgage."

"I thought Veach was a man of property who was temporarily short, and as I had had dealings with him, I loaned the money to accommodate him."

It is rumored that another Pasadena bank is $1000 out as a result of money loaned to Veach on alleged forged collaterals, but this could not be verified yesterday, as it was not heard of until late by those who are making a rigid examination of Veach's affairs.

Reports of other alleged crooked work also comes frm Pasadena. It is said that Veach is seriously in debt to the several insurance companies with which he had dealings as an agent, and it is suspected that a life-insurance policy of $20,000 has been used as collateral, although it could not legally be turned to that account, being less than a year old at the present time.

Several checks drawn by Veach on the Union Savings Bank for various sums were declined by the bank, with the stattement that Veach had no funds there.

Veach's last transaction in Pasadena before his arrest was the purchase of Odear's fruit stand on East Colorado street last Saturday, for which he gave a check for $157 on the First National Bank of Pasadena. The stand was purchased in the name of Mrs. Veach, and R. H. Pinney yesterday took an assignment and bill of sale from Mrs. Veach of the fruit store to secure himself for money loaned. VEACH AND HIS CALLERS.

All day yesterday people flocked to the county Jail to see Veach and Under theriff Clement was kept busy writing

Sheriff Clement was kept busy writing passes.

It is said that many of Veach's callars were people who had lost money or property through his machinations, and that they were there for the purpose of having him make restitution.

Veach was seen by a Times reporter, and said: "I was a victim of temptation. Less than two years ago I met, on the street in Passadena, a man named Joe, his other name I do not know. Joe said he had a plan to make some money. He cuggested that I make the acknowledgments before the notaries on the real said documents and other papers from which money could be made, and then turn them over to him, and he would the rest.

names and made other changes in the papers and then they were filed for record. I believe we started at this work less than a year ago. I paid him a certain sum of money for each instrument. I never forged a name to any document; Joe did all that."

A copy of the records was shown to Veach and also the account of them as published in The Times yesterday, and he admitted that they were correct, but denied the forgeries, although he said he had a knowledge that they were beling perpetrated.

He admitted receiving $3200 from Josiah Russell, and other sums to the total of $9075. Of this he says he paid Joe about $1200.

When asked what he had done with the money, he said he had also fitted up a real estate office and purchased a safe.

Veach also claimed that he had given

Veach also claimed that he had given a man named Ellis in Pasadena $250 on a contract for land, on which he had agreed to erect a business block and give Ellis a mortgage on it, and also on the Williams property, lot No. il, in Arminta Thornton's subdivision on Madison avenue in Pasadena, which he intended to buy.

The talk of the town yesterday in Pasadena was the arrest of J. R. Veach, and the developments in regard to his queer doings. Mrs. Veach is the object of much sympathy, for beside mortgaging the house, which is her home, Veach placed heavy mortgages on every article of household furniture, even those things exempt by law from attachment. Business firms, of which he bought goods, attached the refrigerator, safe, and horse and carriages Sunday night, and today other writs were served, and everything not covered by mortgage has been selzed upon by hungry creditors. Beside being left penniless, Mrs. Veach is left with the care of Veach's daughter by a former marriage, a child of 12, upon her hands for support.

Two Cuban Leaders.

Two Cuban Leaders.

(Harper's Weekly:) Maximo Gomez was born at Bani. Santo Domingo, in 1836. His aptitude for warfare was first show in his native country, but while still a young man he went with a military contingent called the Reserves to Santiago de Cuba. At the outbreak of the revolution in Yara he enlisted in the Cuban army as a private in the command of the poet, José Joaquin Palma. Promoted to the rank of captain soon afterward, he was one of the most tireless and aggressive of partisans during the entire course of the war. On the death of Agramonte, Gomez succeeded to the command, and was prominent in the negotiations that led to the treaty of Zanjon in 1878. The reasons which led him to accept that convention are set forth in a pamphlet published at Kingston shortly after he had left Cuba. From Jamaica he went to Central America, where the President of Honduras received him cordially. In 1885 he and Maceo and Crombet planned various expeditions with the design of fomenting war in went to Central America, where the President of Honduras received him cordially. In 1885 he and Maceo and Crombet planned various expeditions with the design of fomenting war in Cuba, but for several years all their efforts were unavailing. The revolutionary impulse had been beaten to a standstill. When it had gathered strength once more this veteran of slight figure with briliant restless black eyes—an indomitable creature bearing a good name for honorable dealing among his fellows—was ready to lead as a matter of course.

José Antonio Maceo is younger by twelve years. A native of Santiago de Cuba, his parents are described as pardos (brown people, or, more accurately, gray people—a pleasant variant of the term mulatto.) And it is a family of "mucha estima." Antonio's person, which is fortunately ample, is said to be scarred with twenty-one wounds received on the battlefields of the war of 1868 78. When other accepted the treaty of Zajon, Maceo earned his reputation as a forceful character by his implacable opposition. He would not come in. Martinez Campos in a letter of March 19, 1878, makes this reference to him:

"Contrary to all expectations of the chamber and the government, it has been impossible to accomplish anything in the enemy's country, where a certain Antonio Maceo is paramount—a fellow who was muleteer and is general, who has immense ambition, great bravery and influence, and who beneath a rude exterior hides a natural talent."

Extensive the made clear by forgeries. The forgeries, with the exception of the Bryan mortgage which was assigned to Josiah Russell, have a striking similarity.

Usually, forgers content themselves with forging the name in the instrument and impersonating, or having some one else impersonate, before the notary public the person whose name is forged, but Veach in every case seems to have appeared before the notary himself, with his own name signed to the instrument as the executing party, and acknowledged the execution of it as his own instrument, after which his name was erased from the instrument in every place where it appeared as the overcomes the difficulties encountered to the instrument of the instrument of the superintendent, evidently understands his own instrument, after which his name was erased from the instrument of the superintendent, evidently understands his own instrument, after which his name was erased from the instrument of the superintendent, evidently understands his own instrument, after which his name was erased from the instrument of the superintendent of years and preserved and held by him. By the overcomes the difficulties encountered to the superintendent of the su in every place where it appeared as the executing person, and also from the acknowledgment, and then such names as suited the purpose were inserted.

J. C. Williams, in addition to figuring in one of Veach's other transactions, as related in these columns yesterday, said last night that Veach had obtained $1400 from him, which has not been mentioned before.

"This money." said Williams to a Times reporter, "was obtained on the strength of a forged mortgage for $2700 on property in Putnam county, Ill. Yeach assigned this mortgage to me as collateral. I am inclined to think that the certificate of title and fire insurance policy were forged as well as the

In curing consumption there's nothing like taking Time by the forelock. Doctors say consumption can't be cured; they have arguments to prove it. But when they see it cured right under their face and eyes by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, they admit that there's something wrong about their arguments and something wonderful about the "Discovery." It isn't miraculous. It won't cure every case; but it cures a suprisingly large percentage of cases, even when the patient is pretty far gone with a bad cough, and bleeding from the lungs, and reduced almost to a shadow. Consumption is a blood disease. The lungs want a fresh supply of pure rich blood and plenty of it; that is what the "Golden Medical Discovery" gives them. It is a blood-maker. It gives the blood -making functions power to produce a large quantity of the nourishing red corpuscles which make healthy life giving blood. This stops the wasting; drives out the impurities; heals the ulceration and begins a rapid building-up process, of solid, substantial flesh and vital energy. It cures every form of chronic blood-disease and all scrofulous and eruptive affections.

Mr. Isaac E. Downs of Spring Valley, Rockland County, N. Y., writes; "For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consump.

Hose together. 247 holds the ordinary rubber garden hose together.

The strength of hose depends on these rub-ber rivets (technically called friction). A short rivet is stronger than a long one. Bull-Dog rivets are short.

Theory and results prove Bull-Dog strong-est hose for money made.
